State may grant funds for 32 housing units at Deming Way

Wilmington stands a good chance of receiving $1.96 million to build 32 units of elderly housing at Deming Way and eight family units.

In a meeting with town officials on Tuesday, Bob Pines, director of the Executive Office of Communities and Development, said he would recommend approval of the housing.

The proposal would replace the one previously approved by the state for conversion of the Buzzell School into housing. That proposal fell through when the town meeting voted to turn the school over to the Council on Aging for a drop-in center. Subsequently, the Housing Authority voted to drop another proposal near Lucci's, and concentrate on the expansion of the Deming Way project.

The proposal for Deming Way, as submitted to the state, was for 44 units at Deming Way and 11 family units on scattered sites. The state came back with the proposal for 32 elderly units and 8 family units.

A definite answer on whether the state can fund the $1.96 million project in the current round of funding is expected within a week. The state had granted the Wilmington Housing Authority $450,000 for the Buzzell School.

The expansion of Deming Way involves the building of a sewer on Cedar Street to serve both the existing and new housing units. The new housing would be built on land now occupied by the septic system for the existing units. That system has had its troubles. Two years ago, the state approved a $50,000 grant for repairs, and that money is set aside for the construction of the sewer.

Protesters parade

About 100 protesters paraded through Wilmington on Sunday afternoon, protesting the deployment of nuclear missiles. After parading to Avco from the common, they returned to the common for a rally. The parade is shown exiting Parker Street onto Lowell Street.

On Monday, police arrested 70 demonstrators at Avco, charging them with trespassing. Two of the protesters reported injuries — a dog bite and a gashed hand.

Construction start in two years on long-delayed Route 129?

Plans for the intersection of Routes 93 and 129 (Lowell Street) and a four way interchange, are now about 25 percent complete, according to State Rep. Jim Miceli, speaking at a breakfast meeting of the Wilmington Chamber of Commerce.

All traffic on the new interchange will exit to the right. There will not be any "cross traffic" as at present, the meeting was told. There will be a median strip, dividing Lowell Street, from the Reading line to the new location for West Street, which will be about 600 feet westerly of the present location.

Miceli and Richard Bradley of the engineering firm of Barnes & Jarvis spoke on the subject.

The median strip on Lowell Street will be continued to a point about 600 feet from Woodland Drive westerly of West Street.

Miceli later said, though, that he is still actively working to secure an opening in the median strip at the present West Street.

Miceli described the plans for relocation of West Street, northerly of West Street, as a "dog leg" and said that there is still controversy. The Wilmington police and fire departments were not happy about the plans, he said. John Forrest, owner of the Forrest Mobil Station was unhappy. He is being cut off from direct access to Route 129.

On the south side of Route 129, West Street will divide the Fiorenza property with a long curve. Fiorenza owns much of the property bounded by West Street, Lowell Street and the ramp to Rte. 93. The present West Street, near Suncrest Avenue, will no longer be the main part of that street.

The curve will put West Street on the north and east sides of the Cardio Pulmonary building opposite Suncrest Avenue. The present office building now occupied by state offices will be taken by eminent domain and demolished. It is owned by Fiorenza as part of his property. There will be a small "circle" at the entrance to Industrial Way, near Route 93.

Woburn Street, next to Lucci's, will also be relocated, Bradley said. The new location will be feet westerly of the present street. A part of the curve northerly of Lowell Street will be eliminated by the new layout - which will take a portion of the land on which the new Avco building is located.

Miceli and Forrest spent time in dicussing the proposed layout of West Street. It is still in a discussion stage, Miceli said. Forrest declared that 150 people had voted down the proposed design in a Wilmington selectmen's public hearing.

Miceli said that "we have made dramatic changes, and justifiably so, to accommodate people on West Street."

It is not just the state, Miceli said, but the "Feds" who are also involved.

Frank Semanza, Mass. DPW official, said he felt the present design is "the safest." He can "live with the dog leg," he said.

From the "25 percent" stage to the "75 percent" stage in design can take about 30 days, the hearing was told. Once the 100 percent design is approved there will be a land taking, probably in one to one and a half years, and construction will start in about two years.

Construction will take about two years.

There are now two consulting firms for that portion of Lowell and Main Streets that goes from Avco through Wilmington Center, Miceli said. The second firm is Storch Engineering.

With any luck the engineering plans, for the 25 percent stage will be completed in a few weeks. Then there will be a public meeting, to discuss the subject.

The environmental portions of the planning are complete. Miceli has been meeting about once a week with the state DPW officials and frequently with Federal officials, going over the plans, he told the audience. The state DPW engineer in charge of the project near Wilmington Square is now Arthur Garrity.

The proposal is still to have the road cross Church Street near the fire station and exit onto Main Street at Middlesex Avenue.

There are Federal funds "waiting for us," but there is "always the possibility of a hold." That could stop the work.

Miceli was concerned about the Burlington Avenue bridge. The bridge is declared safe for eight tons. "How many years," he asked, "will it before the job is completed at the center of town?"

"The saying is three years — I think it will be five."

Referring to the proposal for a new access from Route 93 at the Andover - Tewksbury line, Miceli declared it was at a "stalemate." "To do it we have to close Route 125, and I'm not going to do that."

The Woburn Street bridge, at the Woburn - Wilmington line is on hold, he said. The Wilmington Chamber of Commerce has been assured that there will be no work there until after Route 129 planning has been completed.

Referring to the proposals for Route 129, Miceli said that it would mean more cars on that street. "By reconstruction you may move as much as half more."

He was against any moratorium on industrial development. "I do not think it will be the wisest choice."

In answer to a question about construction dates at Wilmington Square, Bradley told the audience, "about two years." The next major review of the project will be at "75 percent," he said, which will be in about a year.

Fourth celebration to run all week

Two nights of fireworks will highlight the Fourth of July celebration in Wilmington this year. Fourth of July events will begin on Mon., July 2 and continue through Sat., July 7.

On Monday, the senior citizens will put on a pot luck supper, to be followed by bingo.

The carnival will open on Tuesday evening. There will also be a hospital bed race, a BMX bike demonstration, the dunk tank, a spaghetti supper by the Sons of Italy, a concert by Gleason and Scott, and at 9 p.m., fireworks.

Wednesday the Fourth will start off with a breakfast on the common, by the Knights of Columbus, followed by the Quadrathon. Children's events will be staged in the afternoon, and the carnival will be open from 2 to 10 p.m. Dinner will be a roast beef supper by the Knights of Columbus, with entertainment by the Spotlighters Dinner Theater group.

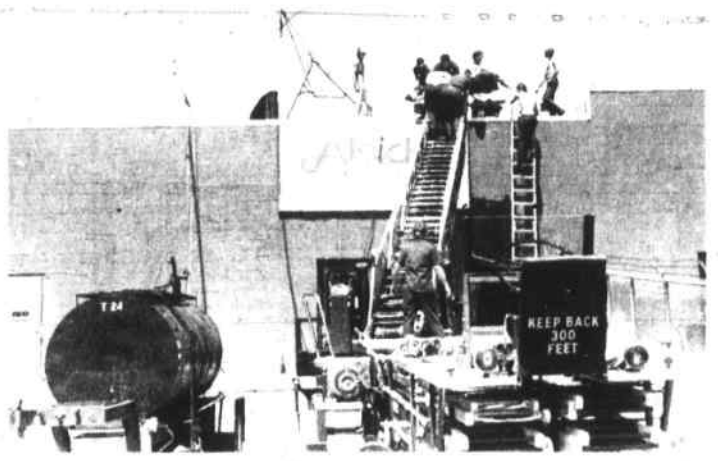
On Thursday evening, there will be a road race, a ham and bean supper by the Rotary Club, and strawberry shortcake by the Chamber of Commerce. There will be a concert by the John Penny Band, and the carnival will be open from 6 to 10 p.m.

The Lions Club will be serving dinner on Friday night, satsuage and peppers. Country Limited will be the concert, the carnival will be open and fireworks will go off at 10 p.m.

Breaktast on Saturday will be served by the Wilmington Minutemen. An arts exhibition by the Council of Arts will be open from 10 to 4. Events from 10 to 2 will include volleyball, tennis, horseshoes, badminton, with teams from the town and from industry. The carnival will be open from 2 to 10 p.m. The Cloggers will be dancing at 4 p.m., followed by the Broadway Babies at 5. The Wilmington Kiwanis Club will present its annual chicken barbecue from 5 to 7, followed by a concert with Robin Right.

The League of Women Voters will sell pie and Wilmington Youth Hockey will sell ice cream each night on the common. None of the dinners will include dessert other than this.

A complete program of events, presented by the Wilmington Kiwanis Club, will be included with next week's Town Crier.



Burned by hot tar

A 20-year old man from Somerville was severely burned on Saturday when he fell into a pump pumping molten tar. Robert Samson was working on a roofing project at the Paul Arpin Van Lines on Woburn Street, Wilmington at the time of the accident. Firefighters used the ladder truck to evacuate him from the roof of the building, and then rushed him to the Mass. General Hospital. He suffered burns on about 50 percent of his body.

Car wash Sunday

A group of Wilmington High School students has organized a car wash to support the town's Fourth of July celebration. They will be washing cars from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. on Sunday, June 24 at Wilmington High School. The charge is $3.00 for cars, or $4.00 for vans and trucks.

CLOCK TOCK

by THE CLOCKFOLK OF NEW ENGLAND
Wilmington

A clock can not be wound up too tightly as long as unusual force is not exerted when a full wind is attained. Many clock owners feel that if they once wind their clock too much it will not run until somewhat unwound. Actually, the only thing that happens is the oil gets squeezed out from between the coils of the mainspring. Continuous excessively tight winding each time, can slowly tear the outer end of the mainspring, but often it is unavoidable. Antique American clocks require tight winding, while antique French clocks are among the easiest to wind.

Modern Chelsea ships clocks wind very gently. This is an indication of a well made clock because the mainsprings do not have to be extra thick, extra long, and extra springy to drive gears which mesh well and have polished teeth and jeweled bearings. In fact, such clocks last longer and keep better time.

A clock's mainspring will unwind no matter how tight it is wound as long as it is reasonably clean and lubricated. Prevention of unwinding would be from too much friction between the mainspring coils such as old sticky oil or rusty coils, or worn bearings in the clock mechanism which are trouble when pressure is prevalent after a full wind.

Mall owner agrees to help with trash problem

The owner of the Oakdale Mall in Tewksbury has agreed to work with selectmen and neighborhood residents in an effort to alleviate what residents claim is an ongoing trash problem on the site.

Mall owner Henry Matarazzo heard residents' complaints during a June 12 selectmen's meeting and he agreed to talk with Selectman Charlie Coldwell and neighborhood spokesperson Jean Bartlett over the next few weeks to solve the problem.

Coldwell meet with Matarazzo and residents last week and reported Tuesday that they all seemed to have come to the agreement that Matarazzo will erect a fence to prevent trash on his site from being blown into neighbors' yards. The neighbors, Coldwell said, "seem happy" with the agreement.

Although not blaming Matarazzo for the problem, neighbors have complained that trash from the Oakdale Mall rubbish disposal areas and parking lot continues to blow off the site and into their yards.

In response to the neighbor's concerns, Matarazzo told the board on June 12 that he has a man on the site who is now responsible for picking up loose debris, cleaning the area and picking up some rubbish that piles up in the yards of three neighbors. "A lot of that stuff (trash) is not mine," he said. "It's coming from as far away as Burker King," he added.

He said that a large amount of trash was also brought on the site and left behind. "Since they've closed the Billerica dump everyone's been packing garbage all around the dumpsters," he said while noting that even if the dumpsters were closed and locked, people would still leave trash on top of them or on the sides. "It's been a job just to keep that area clean," he said.

In proposing that Matarazzo prepare a list of recommendations to solve the problem, Chairman Paul Sullivan said that the neighbors have nothing but priase for Matarazzo's operation with the exception that "their fences are lined" with rubbish apparently being blown off the Main Street Mall site.

Coldwell, who is also working to help solve debris and noise problems with neighbors of the New England Brickmaster site on East Street, volunteered to work with Matarazzo and the neighbors to solve this problem.

Bartlett said she has a copy of a 12-year-old letter from Matarazzo saying that "Henry promised all the neighbors that he would erect a fence to stop any debris from going into our yards." Last February, she said, Matarazzo told her that he was planning to put shrubs around the site to curtail the level of debris being blown off the site.

"Even with that, Henry - we know your a neighbor, I like you, your a nice guy - but, things have just been to an extent of procrastination," she said while questioning whether maintenance men would be able to pick up loose debris every day.

She proposed that Matarazzo put up a four foot high stockade fence around the edge of the Mall site as it abutts Shawsheen Street.

"I don't mind building a fence, but it isn't going to solve the problem," Matarazzo said.

"Two years ago you promised to put a fence up around there" and put trash containers around the lot. "That has'nt happened," Bartlett said.

Although the neighbors wanted a stockade fence, Selectman Bill Hallisey suggested that a chain link fence be installed because the line of sight would be cut off with a stockade fence. Bartlett agreed with that assessment.

"It would be cheaper for me to put a fence up rather than shrubs," Matarazzo said while noting it may take him two or three weeks to get a plan together.

Gowing family holds 95th annual reunion

What has a story of Wyatt Earp to do with a gathering of the Gowing family of Wilmington"

Not much, someone might say. That person might be right. He or she may not even know who Wyatt Earp was.

Wyatt Earp goes back to the days of the cowboys and the western plains. There were good guys, and there were bad guys, among those cowboys. Many an argument was settled with a pistol. He who shot first won the argument. He was, as the literature of the day had it, "quick on the draw."

Wyatt Earp was a marshall in some of the old towns along the cattle trails. He was quick on the draw. He had to be, or he would have become a dead marshall.

His name came up Sunday, June 17, at the 95th annual meeting of the Gowing family of Wilmington. There were 66 present at the 200-acre campground of Bob and Jean Seaward of Littleton. She is a Bedell, a daughter of the late Harry Bedell.

There is a good sized pond on their property, with boats and even a catamaran. There are many tents, many camps, even a teepee. Last year Bob built a "little theatre" which isn't exactly small at all. It is a nice site for a family meeting before the camping season starts for the summer.

About half the members of the Gowing family were from Wilmington, mostly 10th and 11th generation descendants of Robert Gowing of Edinburgh, Scotland. There was one 13th generation girl, just about a year old.

Of course there was a picnic, and renewing of old acquaintences. There was a business meeting, and talk drifted on to family affairs.

Where, for instance, was the first Gowing meeting" Someone said it was in Weston.

Christine Carter Allard knew. It was in the barn of Bradley "Brad" Eames of North Wilmington 95 years ago.

That barn is part of the place which is today the Richardson home on Woburn Street. Across the street is the home of Gertrude Allgrove. Brad Eames was her grandfather.

The barn was built in 1884 or 1885. The timbers came from Clapps Mill down by the Burlington line and the wood from the Nod Mill on Salem Street. Brad was probably quite proud of that new barn and was happy to have his relatives in to take a look.

Christine Allard had a newspaper clipping telling how Mrs. Allgrove, some years ago, recounted the tale.

The conversation drifted on to other affairs.

Betty Furland Dimond of Middleboro, originally from Wilmington had a tale to tell of a New Hampshire man named Wyman. He married a girl from the Gowing family, Betty said, and the couple had gone out west to the cattle country. Out there he was shot and killed by Wyatt Earp.

That, for the crowd was not pleasant news. A Gowing girl had a husband who was killed by Wyatt Earp!

Everyone sat silent and thought it over. Betty then saved the day for the Gowing clan. There had been a divorce she said. It was before the shooting happened.

That made the story more comfortable.

Gowing family reunion Members of the Gowing family gathered for the 95th annual reunion on Sunday at Nashoba Pond in Littleton. Fifty-eight persons are in the photo, some of them being husbands or wives of Gowing family members.

Brad Eames place The house on Woburn Street in Wilmington, now owned by the Richardson family, was owned by Bradley Eames 100 years ago. His "new" barn, which is still standing today, was the site of the first Gowing family reunion. Brad Eames, a Gowing descendant, can be seen in the picture, standing behind the right end of the picket fence.

Tewksbury developers propose new North Street sewer extension route

Tewksbury selectmen voted Tuesday to allow developers of the 156 unit Roper Estates Condominium project on Pleasant Street to pick one of two proposed routes that will extend the town's 21 mile main trunk line sewer.

The board had previoulsy okayed a route that would see the sewer run from the rear of the North Street School, cross land where the Patten Green Condominium project is being built, go across Main Street to Robinson Avenue, go across Helvetia Street and then cross country to the Roper Estates site.

The new proposal would see the sewer run along Pleasant Street, go across Main Street to East Street and then up North Street to the North Street School. The developers and their engineer, William Troy, are not sure yet whether the sewer will then run alongside the school and end in the rear, or whether it will be ended in front of the building.

Should the sewer extension go out to the rear of the school, then a wetland hearing will be needed.

The town has already voted a change order in a sewerage contract to allow the North Street School to be hooked up to the sewer and the funds are apparently already set aside. That change order calls for installing pipe from the back of the school to the sewer pipe line constructed by the developers.

Since the new proposal calls for running the extension in the middle of the road, the developers are also not sure whether they will leave stubs in the pipe that would allow residents along North, East and Pleasant Streets to hook in. The developers attorney, Eugene Geary, told the board he will have to talk to the neighbors about that idea.

Norman Boudreau, partners in the venture with Pete Peters, told the board that under the contract the developers sign to have the sewer installed, there is a possibility they may be able to do it. However, he noted, the developers may charge an as-of-yet undertermined hook up fee to hook residents into the sewer. That fee, which is currently proposed at $800, will be known when the board enacts a set of sewer use rules and regulations within the next few weeks.

In order to clear up some unanswered legal questions concerning the residential hook up concept, the board voted to allow the developers to consult with Town Counsel Charles Zaroulis.

Boudreau asked that the board give their blessing so that the developers could choose whichever route they feel is more feasible.

Selectman Bill Hallisey said that the board should allow the developers to pursue both plans and have the board approve which ever route the developers choose. He said either route "is an improvement to the community."

Boudreau said the final route could be known once a contractor gives a price estimate. He estimated that the decision could be made within the next week.

He also said that if the route goes up Pleasant Street, then the town hall, library, and center fire station could hook into the line.

If the route goes behind the North Street School then the wetland hearing will be needed. The hearing, which was scheduled for Tuesday, had to be postponed because the board was one voting member short.

Selectman Brian Sheehan was unable to attend the meeting and with Paul Sullivan saying he would not sit on the hearing because the route crossed the Patten Green site, being developed by his uncle, Robert, the board did not have enough voting members to conduct the hearing. Four of the five members must vote to issue a special permit to allow work to be done in a wetlands and water shed and conservancy district.

Should the route to the rear of the North Street School be choosen, then the hearing will be held at 8 p.m. next Tuesday.

Noting the new proposed route will run by the center of town, Hallisey's idea to ask Public Works Supt. Phil Pattison to investigate what it will cost to hook the town hall, library, police station, center fire station and center school into the line was supported.

On another sewerage related matter, Hallisey was also supported when he asked Pattison to go over the 11 contracts for the main trunk line to see if there are any funds left over that could be used to hook the three senior citizens housing projects in town into the sewer.

letters to the editor

Dear Larz:

Our selectmen, town manager, together with town counsel should all be commended on their stand against the New England Campaign to Stop Euromissiles.

U.S. Judge Robert Keaton protected the rights of this group at the expense and safety of the town of Wilmington and our great country.

No thanks to those people representing the New England Campaign to Stop Euromissiles, their anti-nuke parade and demonstration could be responsible for targeting the town of Wilmington, leaving us all sitting ducks in the event of nuclear attack.

Compliments to the Town Crier for suggesting that Wilmington residents stay home and give the demonstrators a peaceful quiet message.

Wco is definitely a credit to our town. The people of Wilmington should be proud of Wco and the part its doing to provide instruments to insure security and protection for our great country.

I've had the privilege of knowing several people who were prisoners in concentration camps. pure HELL. God Bless America and Wco.

Sonja Maria Carlson

Dear Larz:

The Town of Wilmington has a lot to "beef" about concerning this most recent demonstration against Avco held this past weekend, June 17, 1984.

There was no substance to the demonstration, it was a carnival atmosphere with the attitude "let's go to Wilmington and put on a puppet show." Let them pick up the tab.

Where was the redeeming value of this demosntration" Invited to our community by Anna Barbara Bruno and Fr. Vic Lavoie of St. Thomas Parish, I would have expected a lot more reflection on this "deadly serious subject of Nuclear War. More time was spent strutting down Route 38 parading to Dixie Land Jazz in front of the cameras than in silent reflection on this tragic state of international affairs. They didn't even call for a moment of silence at the rally on the common, much less a prayer.

Yes, there are people living in Wilmington who consider themselves "peace" activists and pray and work daily toward turning our government toward negotiations, rather than the rhetoric of threats of weapons. They do this in many responsible and prayerful manners. The demonstration held in October was participated in by some of these people. I was one of them.

However, from the beginning the Campaign Against Euro Missiles came into Wilmington wanting confrontation. They announced this from their very first contact with our Chief of Police Bobby Stewart. Yet our community has taken a rap for not granting them a permit, "taking away their First Amendment Rights."

Balderdash, what type of town government would we have, if they knowingly granted a permit to people who were set on getting arrested and disrupting Sunday, June 17, by parading through residential areas and having a rock concert on the common, which by the way, started before church services were over.

Further, they told every official in town they would be trying to close down Avco on Monday, June 18, 1984.

Mr. Dillinger, one of the "Chicago 7 radicals" of the 60's and active in movements of the Socialist Party, was their main speaker. His comments were those of rebellion of the people and overthrow of our corrupt government in the United States. This is the same government they demanded First Amendment Rights from.!!! These comments were meant to excite to civil disobedience and did little to wake the conscience of truly peace loving people, and offered no hope.

As Christians, we are called to "get our hosue in order" and we are told no man knows when the holocaust will come. But if we study our Bible we know more signs, from Revelations have come to pass than were every expected before this event.

We are also told to render unto Ceasar what is Ceasar's and to God what is His. This arms race is not of God, it is of man. Yes, Got has also asked us to obey His commandments and to keep the Sabbath Holy. This group had little respect for that one, or for any higher power. Mr. Dillinger, in fact, stated that there was no higher power than ourselves in his speech. He did not call for prayer, he called for rebellion against our government.

I hardly think I need this preaching about peace and justice.

The Peace and Justice Commission for the Archdiocese did not endorse this action in any manner, as selectmen were told. "Over three years ago a letter was sent out throughout the Archdiocese that demonstrations of this type were no longer appropriate and only cause harm to a valid statement of the church regarding war." John Monihan coordinator of planning Bishop's Peace and Justice Commission June 15, 1984.

The Bible has also warned us of false prophets. God has called us as Christians to follow the good and wise Shepard, as he would not lead us to harm or danger. He did not say we had to follow blindly and he also warned us to be wise. So for me, my fellow citizens, I will continue to do my homework and be sure who and what I follow to where.

Shalom

Charlie Doucette's greenhouse Charlie Doucette built his greenhouse himself. The glass faces south, and the other walls are solid. Lots of heat goes into the house, through an underground pipe. The nearer half is also for plants, some of which can be seen growing in the plant-bed. There are some gallon jugs, to be seen over Charlie's shoulder, which retain heat and help keept the greenhouse warm at night.

A greenhouse and a fig tree

Charlie Doucette of Tewksbury did not win the entirely ficticious Golden Pea Spoon Award of the Town Crier this year. Charlie had his first peas on June 17. Two other contestants, so far, have reported peas on June 15.

But Charlie has a home and garden worth talking about. He works for General Electric and about 50 years of age he bought a piece of land in Tewksbury. A warenouse now occupies a part of that land. Charlie too, occupies some of it, in a home he built himself.

Behind the house is a 50 by 75 foot garden, growing nicely. There are vegetables to make any back yard gardner envious. Three rows of potatoes, three rows of tomatoes, grown from seed, strawberries, squash - you name it, Charlie has it. There is, too, a fig plant which he puts out for the summer and takes into the garage for the winter - a fig plant in New England!

His greenhouse is the thing anyone can envy. Charlie built it five years ago from remnants of other greenhouses being torn down in Tewksbury because the price of oil was too high.

It is half a greenhouse. There is a solid wall on th enorth side and no glass. Charlie designed it to supplement the hat in his home. There is an underground pipeline, and a fan, that pumps the heat into the house.

Sometimes in the winter, Charlie reports, the thermometer in that greenhouse is up to 150 degrees. He save considerably on the heating bill for his home.

There are 40 gallon jugs, all of dark green glass. Those jugs, filled with water, absorb a lot of heat during the day. Then, during the night, those jugs keep the air warm, and that part of the greenhouse, which is devoted to plants, never gets too cold.

In that greenhouse he still is growing plants which he will be transplanting into the garden shortly.

Believe it or not Improbable though it may be, Charlie Doucette has a fig tree growing in Tewksbury. He moves it into the garage in the winter.

Associate appeals board members given six months to increase attandence at meetings

Tewksbury selectmen acted Tuesday to finish their annual appointments. They rounded out the membership on the board of appeals and the patriotic activities committee while appointing one member to the municipal building committee and voted to seek another. The also voted to seek a town historian.

The board several weeks ago voted to appoint members to three years terms on the full board of appeals and Tuesday voted to appoint four associate members who will each serve one year.

The board held up appointment of associate members so they could review attendance records of the members up for reappointment.

The town meeting last year adopted a bylaw allowing selectmen to remove from office any appointed board member who failed to attend at least 25 percent of the called meetings of their board.

Selectmen, however, did not fully invoke that bylaw Tuesday. Instead they voted to reappoint three associate members with the stipulation that they must improve their attendance record in six months or face a removal hearing.

Gaining initial appointment as an associate member was Charles Gaffney. Getting reappointed to the board were Joseph DiBiase, Roger Lafreniere and Richard Piecewicz.

According to records: DiBiase attended 15 of the 23 meetings he was eligible to attend, a 35 percent absent rate; Lafreniere attended four of the eight meetings he was eligible to attend, a 50 percent absent rate; and Piecewicz attended 20 of the 28 meetings he was eligible to attend, a 28.5 percent absent rate.

DiBiase, Selectman Charlie Coldwell explained, spreads his time between two boards that meet on Monday nights. One being the board of appeals, the other being the conservation commission. Coldwell said DiBiase usually attends the appeals board on nights in which hearings are held and trys to attend conservation commission meetings on nights in which applications for zoning bylaw variances are being received.

However, Selectman Tom Girard, the prime mover behind adoption of the attendance bylaw and a former appeals board member, said DiBiase should choose between one or the other.

Girard said that members who do not attend the meetings often times hold up decisions on cases before the appeals board. He said often times the members who heard cases are not present at subsequent meetings when a decision is due. He also said there have been times when members do not show up for meetings and hearings can not be held.

When decisions are delayed, Girard has contended, it causes an inconvience to the person involved in the case.

Selectman Bill Hallisey said that he has no problem with the attendance bylaw, but added that he has asked people with poor attendance on appointed boards to resign and has been successful an a few occassions.

Hallisey added, however, that he could find it difficult to tell those people that he allowed other people whose attendance has been "a little better than yours" to be reappointed.

Girard then suggested that the board send the people being reappointed a letter stating that since it is the first year under the bylaw, the board is showing a little discretion. He added that they should also be told that the board will act harsher the next time around and that members who know they can not meet the attendance requirement resign.

Hallisey then suggested that the letter also state their attendance record will be re-examined six months from now to see if the attandance record has improved.

Sullivan said that the bylaw has "done well for the attendance on the whole. As a matter of fact this attendance is certainly much better than it would have been if that (bylaw) had not been passed."

Coldwell agreed the board should watch attendance for another six months because the members were pretty close to the mark.

The worse attandance violators, the board noted, are now off the appeals board. Both Jean Russell, a full member who attended 14 of the board's 28 meetings last year, and Richard Sprague, an associate member who attended only 11 of the 28 meetings, were not reappointed to positions.

Others gaining appointments Tuesday were: Lawrence Discroll to a three year term on the municipal building committee, with the selectmen still looking for another applicant to fill the vacancy left by the late John Sughrue; Robert Cooke as a member to the 250th Anniversary Committee; and Norma Doherty, Charles English, Robert Fay, Beth Forsyth, Lou Madden, John Regolino, Mark Roberts and Richard Sutherby to one year appointments to the patriotic activities committee.

The board also agreed to send a letter to Tom Conlon to see if he is interested in appointment as town historian to fill the vacany left by the late Loella Dewing.

Austin Prep holds awards night

Austin Preparatory School of Reading recently held its 21st annual Awards Night Program. This is a formal occasion sponsored by the Friends of Austin to pay tribute to students for their participation in the life of the school and to honor students for outstanding achievements in academics and activities.

Prior to the awards ceremony many students and their families attended a Mass of Thanksgiving in the school chapel. Director of Student Activities George M. Miller opened the evening with a brief address to the assembly of faculty members, students, parents and friends. He spoke of the role played by both human and divine love in sustaining the Austin community.

Among the highlights of the evening was the presentation of the All-Around Athlete Award, which was shared by Edward Geary of Tewksbury and Steven Schmitt of Wilmington.

The following local residents were also honored:

Tewksbury: David Morel, John P. Mahoney Memorial Scholarship, Math Team Award; Richard Morel, Math Club Award, Omega Award, President's Academic Fitness Award; James Daley, Math Club Award; Sean Manseau, Russian Olympiada Silver Medal, Student Council Award; Thomas Adamczyk, Russian Olympiada Bronze Medal; Dennis Higgins, Softball Award; Joseph Gould, Softball Award; Andrew DiCiaccio, Softball Award; Brian Keane, President's Academic Fitness Award; and Mark Paquette, President's Academic Fitness Award.

Wilmington: Kevin Robinson, Street Hockey Award; Richard Bova, Street Hockey Award; Steven Schmitt, Street Hockey Award, Student Council Award; Richard Finlay, Softball Award; Abigail Herrick, Cheerleader Award; William Brookings, President's Academic Fitness Award; and Stephen Hartka, President's Academic Fitness Award.

Tewksbury soccer field bill passes house, in senate

Legislation that would transfer some 40 acres of state owned land to the Town of Tewksbury has passed the house and is now in the senate, according to State Rep. Jim Miceli.

If the bill passes the senate, the 40 acre parcel on North Street would be turned over from the State Department of Public Health to the Town of Tewksbury and its youth soccer program. The 40 acre lot will yield at least two soccer fields on which some 1300 children enrolled in the Tewksbury Youth Soccer Program will play.

According to Miceli, the youth soccer program has funds in its own budget to convert the vacant land into two playing fields.

McGovern staff holds office hours

Peter Coppinger of Senator Patricia McGovern's staff will be holding office hours at Tewksbury Town Hall from 7 to 9 p.m. on Wednesday, June 27.

The residents of Tewksbury who wish to express an opinion on any issue, or who have a complaint, problem or suggestion about the workings of state government are welcome to attend.

Concert Tuesday

The next Wilmington Recreation Department Concert will be sounding off on Tuesday, June 26 from 7:30 to 9 p.m.

Providing the tunes that night will be the Chelmsford Community Stage Band. Sponsoring this enjoyable evening will be Charles River Breeding Labs, Rainbow Fuel Company and The Village Pantry.

Street hockey tourney

The Reading Y's Men Club will sponsor a summer street hockey league to be held at the Reading YMCA beginning early in July.

The league will run from July 9 to September 7 and will consist of eight 12-man teams. The league will feature playoffs and an all star game at the end of the season to be coordinated with the Y's summer celebration 1984.

Interested players must be between the ages of 13 and 15. The Y is looking for complete teams, but will gladly accept single registrations. There will be a small fee to participate in the league.

Registration begins immediately. Enter soon by stopping by the Reading YMCA at 36 Arthur B. Lord Drive, or call Jim Connor, league coordinator at 944-7989. Sign-up now to make sure your team gets a spot in the league.

Tewksbury clinches Division III championship

Finishing the season undefeated, Tewksbury's BU-12B team has clinched the Division III championship, posting its fifth shutout by defeating Chelmsford, 6-0.

Tewksbury was in complete control, allowing only three shots on goal the entire game. Co-captain Greg Basilio began the scoring on a penalty kick, quickly followed by his second goal, assisted by Nick LaPierre. Tim Nawn scored Tewksbury's third goal assisted by Joey Centrella and Nick Stecher. Joe Centrella followed with the fourth goal assisted by David Carrol. Craig Hogan scored next assisted by Greg Basilio. Finally, Co-captain Sean Wilson scored Tewksbury's final goal assisted by Eric Mueller.

The team will now compete in the regionals for the commissioners' cup next weekend. Congratulations to coaches Dennis Hogan and Ed Simas for a super season.

BU-19

Tewksbury vs Chelmsford

Tewksbury's BU-19 team played one of its best games of the season and battled Chelmsford to a 2-2 tie. The game was played in scorching heat, with Tewksbury two players short the entire game.

The outstanding play of goalie Alan Gianette and defensemen Michael Stalker and Bill Deppe managed to keep Tewksbury in the game. Tewksbury's goals were scored when the Chelmsford goalie bobbled a defensive pass on the right wing that Jim Field pounced on and passed across the crease where Peter Kuchinchuk slammed in the goal.

The third goal was scored by Jimmy Field, who accellerated through three Chelmsford players to blast in the goal.

Boys Under 14

H Travelling

Tewksbury vs Winchester

Tewksbury travelled to Winchester, and while playing in the heat and humidity managed to capture a 3-2 win. However they controlled the game to a much greater extent than the score would indicate.

Tewksbury goals were scored by Jimmy Pollard, with an assist from Peter Atherton; Ken Culbertson, with an assist from Michael LaFreniere; and Tom Walsh, with an assist from Matthew Jarek. Brian DeLuca scored an "almost assist." When asked what an "almost assist" was, Brian replied: "Peter almost scored a goal following my setup and if he had, I would have gotten an assist. "Therefore, I should get an almost assist." Also playing well for Tewksbury was Joe Seely, David Finn, Lenny Bolton, Chris Horgan, Jim Waldron and Bill Lamon.

Tewksbury vs Medford

Tewksbury's Under 14B traveling team went to Medford to complete the third of three straight days of games, and wound up scoring a 2-1 victory. Excellent passing and teamwork was becoming evident as the end of the season approaches, but another reason for the improved play is the addition and excellent all-around play of Jim Waldron.

Scoring for Tewksbury were Peter Atherton and Michael Doherty. John Sweeney made many saves in goal and played his usual steady game. Helping him were fullbacks Brian DeLuca, David Finn and Jim Pollard. Tewksbury has lost only one game going into Saturday's finale against Melrose.

Under 12 Inturamural

Spartans 5 Wildcats 3

Kenny Talbot of the Spartans scored the hat trick for three of the five goals, with Mark Eastman and Chris Cunningham contributing one each for the win. Excellent passing by Robert Barrasso and excellent defense by Jeremy Schutz rounded out a great game by the Spartans.

The Wildcats fought all the way, with strong play by Kerin Fiore and Chris Alfieri on the attack, Scott Merino on defense and Kathy Manseau. The entire team turned in a fine effort.

Clippers 3 Astros 1

Power forward Fran Correia scored yet two more, with Keith Crowley adding the insurance goal and Ben Latham playing a fine attacking game. Tracy Tempia and James Donovan on defense helped clinch the win. Shawn Johnson rocketed in one for the Astros and Jimmy Novak on offense and defense played well. Jennifer Peach and Larry Andreason anchored the defense to hang tough all the way.

Dynamos 6 Cougars 3

For the Cougars, one goal apiece for Greg Ray, Cam McLeod and Sal Reitano assisted by strong defensive action by Jimmy Zaroulis and Tina Connor.

Falcons 1 Comets 1

In this low scoring defensive battle, the Falcons' defense was led by Bobby Brady, Dave McGill and Dawn Nolan, with the goal coming late in the game on a penalty kick by Peter Landry.

For the Comets, the goal was powered in by Frank Kushmerek, with great forward assistance from Ed Henderson, halfback Brian McLeod and defense by Steven Foley.

Falcons 2 Spartans 2

For the Falcons, Richard Treem scored on a pass from Robert Stanley and left wing Joe Silverio scored on a direct kick. Shawn Moorehouse had an excellent game at right wing, as did Rico Barrazzo at centerfullback.

Forward Kenny Talbot scored both goals for the Spartans, with an assist from Gregg Scurka. Relief goaltender Jerrimy Shutz was brilliant and front liners Sherri Horton and Amy Duval were also tough when it counted.

Dynamos 3 Clippers 2

The Dynamos' Billy Flynn scored early in the second half on a pass by Scott Selissen, then one each by Brian Smith and Jeff Duquette, with great contributions by Anthony DiMascio and hard working Kevin Simard at halfback. The Clippers got fine first half goal from David Russell and another solid score from Keith Crowley.

Outstanding in goal with tough save after tough save was Glen Harris, with Sean Kelly at both forward ahd halfback and Brian Wahl on defense playing hard in this hotly contested match.

Astros 2 Cougars 1

Jimmy Nowak and Ricky Killian scored one goal apiece for the Astros, with Shawn Johnson and Chris Kimball contributing fine forward play and Kristin Cox at halfback helping pin down this one for their team.

Chris Seitcher powered one in for the Cougars, with super allaround play by teamates Sal Reitano, Cam McLeod, Billy Lucas and Alicia Maaser.

Comets 3 Wildcats 2

Top scorer Frank Kushmerek netted two for the Comets and Brian McLeod rocketed in the insurance goal ably assisted by Marc Silva at halfback and Steven Foley on defense.

The Wildcats' two goals were scored by talented Jason Hyde, with excellent work on defense by Tommy Callahan, fine play by Kerin Fiore and Elaine Donnelly and superb goaltending by Sean McSheehy.

Tewksbury Under 10

Drillers 4 Earthquakes 3

A furious Earthquake rally fell one goal short as the Drillers held on to win, 4-3. Matt DeLuca powered in two goals, while Kevin Nazzaro and Ricky Gigglio each added a goal for the Drillers, who received excellent wing play from Maria Stone and Julie O'Conner.

The Earthquakes' goals were scored by Mark Plachowicz with two goals and Keith Cox scoring one. Rome Miano and Jeannie Deveau played strong games.

Teamen 1 Earthquakes 0

The Teamen's lone goal was scored by Bryan Adams. Excellent offensive play by Bill Bird, Tim De'Sousa, Brendan Duval and James Martin. Excellent midfield play by Mark Bugley, Jill Harris and David Conroy. Strong defensive play by Michael Daykin, Meredith LeDuc and Jean Maranville.

Earthquakes' goalie Jim Hogan was superb. Good offensive play by Andrew Hudak and Kristen Phillips. Jennifer

Tewksbury's Ogden cracks lineup

Shriners' Classic Saturday night

There'll be bands, clowns, a queen, football action, cheerleaders and most importantly, there'll be a lot of heart when the Sixth Annual Shriners High School Football Classic gets underway this Saturday, June 23, beginning at 6:30 p.m. at Boston College's Alumni Stadium, Beacon Street, Chestnut Hill. From 6 to 7 p.m. Boston College Eagles' quarterback and Heisman trophy candidate Doug Flutie, named Most Valuable Player in the 1981 Shriners Football Classic, and a yet-to-be named player from the New England Patriots will be on hand to sign autographs.

Former Tewksbury High School tackle Tom Ogden (6'1, 200) is slated to play for the North Stars Saturday night.

The Classic brings together 88 high school all-star athletes and 200 cheerleaders from 75 eastern Massachusetts communities in an heroic effort to raise much needed funds for the burned and crippled children in Shrine hospitals. Each ticket purchased goes to support Shrine hospitals, so young patients up to age 18 can be treated completely free of charge. The game's motto is "Strong legs run so weak legs can walk."

The family fun begins with a "bring your own" tailgate picnic at 4 p.m. in the stadium parking lot. It continues with special pregame activities beginning at 6:30 which features the famous Shriners clowns and bands - Oriental Band, the Bagpipe band, the Arab Patrol and the Minuteman Marching Band. Curry College head football coach John Doherty will then lead the national anthem accompanied by the Aleppo Brass Band under the direction of Walter Smith.

The game excitement kicks off at 7 p.m. when the players on the Shriners North and South squads face each other in a tough contest that will decide which coach's winning streak will remain intact.

Both Tom Lamb of Natick, South's head coach, and North head coach Bob DeFelice of Winthrop are entering the game with unbroken winning streaks - Lamb with 23 and two Division I Super Bowls, DeFelice with 33.

But, as DeFelice, New England High School Football Coach of the Year, says: "When you can take the best players in eastern Massachusetts and put them together for a cause as great as the Shriners, it's a wonderful experience - whether Tom or I claim victory."

Halftime festivities will keep spirits up, as the Boston Drum and Bugle Corps plays for the crowd, and the Football Queen, 17-year-old Ramona Stillwagon from Dover, New Hampshire is crowned.

Founded in 1940 as a Boston neighborhood activity and called the Most Precious Blood Crusaders, today's Boston Drum and Bugle Corps is considered the most successful private youth program in the City of Boston. The 85-member group, led by Tony DiCarlo, performs at virtually all major civic ceremonies in Boston.

Stillwagon has been a Shriners Burns Institute patient from age five when over 60 percent of her body was severely burned when her pajamas accidentally caught on fire.

Players in the Classic are chosen from league all-stars or newspaper all-scholastic rosters by the Massachusetts High School Football Coaches Association (MHSFCA), who, with the Shriners of Aleppo Temple in Wilmington, co-sponsor the game. Aleppo Temple will host this year's Imperial Session, July 2 through 6, with 50,000 Shriners from across North America expected to attend.

This year the MHSFCA will present for the first time a special award to players with a personal hardship or physical challenge. Ed Caron, center from New Bedford, is one of the 1984 recipients.

Another 10 players in the game received Scholar Athlete Awards from the Eastern Massachusetts Chapter of the National Football Foundation Hall of Fame. These include Brian Barringer of Boston Latin, William Pickles of Dracut, Duke St. Pierre of Danvers, Robert Jean of Newburyport, Bob Glatz of St.John's (Danvers), Jim Kelly of Natick, Darren Flutie of Natick, John Manning of Foxboro, Scott Wassel of Middleboro and Jim Johnson of North Attleboro

Friday, June 22 the players will be honored at a banquet at the Shriners Auditorium in Wimington beginning at 6:30 p.m. New England Patriots running back Robert Weathers will be the featured speaker. Tickets are $15 each and the public is invited. Reservations are required.

Game tickets are $4 for adults and $3 for students and are available at the gate or at the Shriners Auditorium (Exit 13 off I-93, Wilmington).

For more information on the game or banquet, call Harold Foley at (617) 665-6466 or 657-4204.

Registration from page nine

Registration fee for the upcoming season will be $25 per child; $35 for two children; and $45 for three or more children per family.

All youngsters who were members of a Pop Warner team during the 1983 season are reminded that they must register again this year. Also, birth certificates will be required from returning players.

Pop Warner coaches and staff members will be on hand to provide information about registration procedure and to answer questions regarding program plans for the 1984 Wilmington Pop Warner season.

Volunteers

With the upcoming closing of schools for the summer, many Wilmington teens will be looking for things to do. The Recreation Department has two choices for those in that position - volunteer with one of the summer programs and - or participate in the teen program.

Interested volunteers should contact the new Rec Office at the Glen Road Town Hall, 658-4270.

Teen program flyers will be handed out in the intermediate schools and made available in the high school.

Town beach opens Saturday

The D.P.W. and Recreation Department are getting the Town Beach area rady for the summer sun worshipers. The beach will be open for local residents every day from Saturday, June 23 through Sunday, August 26. Beach hours will be 11 a.m. to 7 p.m. except on Sunday when the beach is open from noon to 7 p.m.

The Town Beach is staffed by Recreation Department trained lifeguards and is still free for the enjoyment of the public.

Rec openings

The Wilmington Recreation Department's Tiny Tots program is set to begin Wednesday, June 27. There are just a few openings left for the mornings. If interested, call the Rec office at 658-4270. Volunteers are also a welcome addition to this very popular pre-school enrichment program.

Other programs for the summer that have openings include tennis, swimming lessons, gymnastics, canoe lessons, Red Sox trips, sports clinics and Boston Harbor Cruise.

Recreation league honors TMHS athletes

Four outstanding Tewksbury basketball players were recently rewarded for their achievements both academically and athletically with $200.00 scholarships presented at the third annual Tewksbury Girls' Recreation Basketball Banquet.

Recipients Sandy Hennessy, Mary Rheault, Eileen Griffin and Kirsten Rhodes all were members of the National Honor Society at Tewksbury Memorial High School. The girls also met the scholarship requirements of having played and coached in the recreation league while also playing a varsity sport.

Trophies were awarded to the Junior and Senior Division all-stars as well as the Senior Division champion Cavaliers and the Junior Division winning Pistons. The West Division kingpin Sonics were also presented with trophies.

Lisa Maniscalco took home a bike for selling the most raffle tickets, with Tricia Mazzone and Chris Stanton winning the second and third prizes. Basketballs were presented to all girls who sold more than five books of raffle tickets.

Finally, the league honored all its' graduating seniors with sweatshirts presented at the banquet.

Senior Division All-Stars

Chris Stanton, Lori Zotto, Chris Brady, Jeannie Sullivan, Stephanie Rhodes, Ranee Lombardi, Tricia Censullo, Chris Blake, Kelly McNamara, Tracy Danner, Debbie Byrne, Jodie Sutherland and Lynn Ploof. The coaches were Bob Rhodes and Linda Ashdown.

Junior Division All-Stars

Joanne McNamara, Jennifer Briggs, Tammy Anderson, Jennifer Lightfoot, Darlene Bourque, Kelly Byrne, Stephanie Beaulieu, Kerry Thornhill, Colleen Doherty, Pam Picano, Jennifer Torode and Debbie Staples. The coaches were Michelle Catalano, Chris Parke and Bonnie Staniewicz.

TMHS athletic awards

Three awards were not mentioned in last week's Tewksbury Sports Awards Banquet results. The Tewksbury Youth Soccer Award in memory of Steven Hill was presented to Dana Tower.

The John Sughrue Memorial Award was presented to Laura Briggs and Missy Riddle.

Bike Day

The Wilmington Police Association in cooperation with the Physical Education Department conducted a Bike Safety Program on Saturday, June 16, at the high school parking lot. Five bicycles were awarded, one to a youngster from each of the five elementary and intermediate schools. The recipients were:

North Intermediate School, David Harkins; West Intermediate School, Greg Gardner; Shawsheen School, Mary Beth Spencer; Woburn Street School, Jimmy Kane; Wildwood School, Maureen Mooney.

In addition, Wilmington Police Bike Day shirts were given out to all in attendance.

Officers Spencer and Shelley would like to thank all who helped in this program.

Wilmington police news

Robert Borrasso, formerly of Shawsheen Avenue, Wilmington was arrested by Malden Police on a Wilmington default warrant on June 12, and was taken to Woburn Court.

John R. Quick of C Street, Quincy and Alam Street Lowell was arrested in Lowell on a default warrant issued by Wilmington. He was picked up by Officer McCue, and released on a $200 bail, for a court appearance on June 20.

Daniel A. Borofsky of Oakridge Circle, Wilmington was arrested Friday morning by Officer Peterson. He was charged with operating under the influence of alcohol and speeding.

Joseph Carlo, 80 Tennis Rd., Mattapan was arrested by Officer King Friday after a routine warrant check revealed a default warrant. He was released to the state police in Andover.

William Richard, 32, of 3rd Street, Lowell was arrested by Pat King Friday after an investigation revealed an alleged stolen inspection sticker. He was charged with the stolen sticker, operating without a license, and other motor vehicle offenses.

On Saturday Officer King arrested Edward P. Myers, 24, of Dufresne Drive, Tewksbury. Myers was charged with operating under the influence of drugs an dpossession of a Class D substance.

Kelly A. Churchill, 19, of 708 Woburn St. was arrested at 4:30 a.m. Saturday and charged with possession of marijuana, after being taken to the police station with three other persons who were placed under protective custody. Churchill was bailed for a Tuesday court appearance.

Michael A. Chase, 19, of 19 Lexington St., Wilmington was arrested by Officer Jim Peterson Saturday morning on a motor vehicle default warrant.

Early Sunday morning Harold S. Davis, 21, of 319 Andover Street was arrested by Officer Jim McNally, for operating under the influence of alcohol, and possession of a controlled substance.

Five local youths were placed under protective custody, at 7:30 Sunday morning after an all night party on Marion Street. Previous warnings to break up the party had gone unheeded.

Two adults and a juvenile were arrested by Officer Steve Parsons Saturday evening and charged with possession of marijuana. Daniel Chase, 19, of 2003 Main St., Tewksbury and William Perry, 17, of Oakridge Circle, Wilmington were bailed for a Monday court appearance in Woburn.

All available Wilmington police were brought into work Sunday to cover a planned parade and demonstration on the common and at Avco. There were over 400 protestors. They were guided over the parade route and back to the common without incident and with no arrests.

Again on Monday all available personnel was brought in, along with 12 auxiliary police and 65 tactical patrol officers from 17 surrounding towns and 90 state troopers. They were present to control a large anti-nuclear demonstration at Avco. By the time the demonstration had finished 70 persons, men and women, had been arrested. No one from the immediate area of Wilmington was listed in the arrests. Most of those arrested were from Cambridge, Boston and Western Mass. Some were from Vermont, New Hampshire, Connecticut, Rhode Island and New York.

Those arrested were brought directly to Woburn Court for arraignment. The cases have been continued in the court for the next two months. No local residents were included among the protestors.

During the past week Wilmington police officers responded to two accidents, 25 alarms, made 15 arrests and quieted six disturbances. One larceny was reported, medical assistance was given twice; 10 protective custody detentions were made, one vehicle was reported stolen.

Alert citizens reported two incidents of suspicious activity, there were four trailbike complaints and four involving traffic. One assault and battery was investigated, three breaks were reported and three domestic problems were logged along with one liquor related complaint. One person was reported missing and five incidents of vandalism are still under investigation.

Wilmington senior topics

Lunch program ends Friday

The fall and winter lunch program will end Friday, June 22, the close of school. The summer program will begin July 2. The lunch program is worked cooperatively with the school department. Because of this there is no delivery or serving of meals when schools are closed for vacations throughout the year. There are also no servings during the switch from the fall and summer school program to the head start program and back to the school.

During these weeks it is suggested that residents check their neighborhoods for elderly shut-ins who would appreciate the assistance of anyone willing to cook enough for one more when preparing meals for their families.

Exercise program

The exercise program will stop for the summer months unless more seniors take part. The center is air-conditioned and the program will continue if there is enough interest.

Walking program

Ed Curtis has resumed his walking program for those seniors who enjoy the outdoors. Those interested should call 657-7595.

July social

The Council on Aging therapeutic social for July will be held Thursday, July 19. It will be a bus trip to York Beach, Maine. The buses will leave the Drop-in Center at 10:30 a.m. arriving at York Beach at 12:30. There will be swimming, shopping and restaurants in the area. A $2.00 non-refundable deposit will be required when registering at the Center which will help defray the cost of the buses.

New bills

Several bills pertaining to older Americans have passed the State Senate this month - Medex Bill S-2140 (was S-911) which requires Blue Cross - Blue Shield to demonstrate its effective ness before an increase will be approved; Tax exemption for families caring for elderly at home, S-2165 which allow as a tax exemption to those who supply half the support of a person over 70 who has lived in Massachusetts for six months, the income must not exceed $30,000 for singles or $40,000 for couples; elimination of mandatory retirement S-74 which abolishes mandatory retirement in the commonwealth.

Persons who would find these bills advantageous should write or call Senator Buell thanking him for his support of them. Reps. Miceli and Barrett should be conctated asking for their support when the bills reach the House.

10th anniversary

The year in jail gun law

By JIM ROUILLARD

You're in jail, for one year, for carrying an unregistered firearm in Massachusetts, and no one can get you out.

Make no bones about it: at the state borders the warning comes right behind the welcome — the Bay State has one of the toughest gun laws in the nation — and this year will mark its survival for a full decade.

Enacted in 1974 to take effect on April Fool's Day of 1975, the law is no joke: the one-year mandatory jail sentence for firearms offenders is part of a tough law, with unpleasant penalties. But many people, including local police, feel the results of the alternative, uncontrolled firearms, can be considerably less pleasant.

In a shooting incident on a recent night in North Reading, the results went a long way beyond the merely unpleasant: two men dead, one man wounded.

According to North Reading Police Chief Henry Purnell, the handgun used in the Towerhill Road shootings was registered, but had been reported stolen. And the incident iteself, he said, strongly buttresses the argument that strong gun controls are needed.

If ever the legislature succeeded in carving a law in good old Yankee granite, this may be it. Of course, granite can be polished and honed, and so can the law. Now, a decade after enactment, and despite court interpretations, legislative amendment, and many challenges on a variety of constitutional grounds, the teeth of this particular law, the mandatory one-year jail sentence, remain firmly in place and very sharp.

So sharp, in fact, that according to one local lawyer, the state is having trouble housing all the firearms offenders in the already overcrowded state penal facilities.

Did I say no one could get you out? Well, not exactly no one. The commissioner of corrrections, by virtue of a 1978 amendment to the law, can get you out — but not for long and only under escort — for one of three rather unhappy reasons: to attend the funeral of a relative, to visit a critically ill relative, or to obtain medical or psychiatric care which is unavailable at the jail where you live.

And that jail may very well be Walpole, according to Stoneham Chief of Police Eugene Passaro.

No law, just like no human situation, is ever a clear-cut, black-or-white issue. And Chief Passaro, who apprears in interview to be a man trying to combine a humanist approach to the problems of law enforcement with the absolute need to uphold society's laws, said there is a dichotomy in his own feelings about the state's gun law.

"One side of me believes in every responsible person's right to carry a weapon," he said. "But another side, the policeman in me, says 'no one should carry guns.'

"Obviously, without guns there would be no shootings. There are something like 19,000 accidental shootings in this country per year, mostly by people shooting people they know: their friends, acquaintances, members of their families; they even shoot themselves by accident. If the gun weren't available at the moment of heat, or just plain stupidity, there would be no shooting."

Chief Passaro's range of interests and his compassion are clearly reflected in his conversation and in some of the furnishings of his office: a bust of Abraham Lincoln, a brass and onyx desk ornament of the scales of justice, a print of the well-known Norman Rockwell painting of a patrolman treating a "runaway" boy to ice cream at the soda fountain of an old-fashioned drug store.

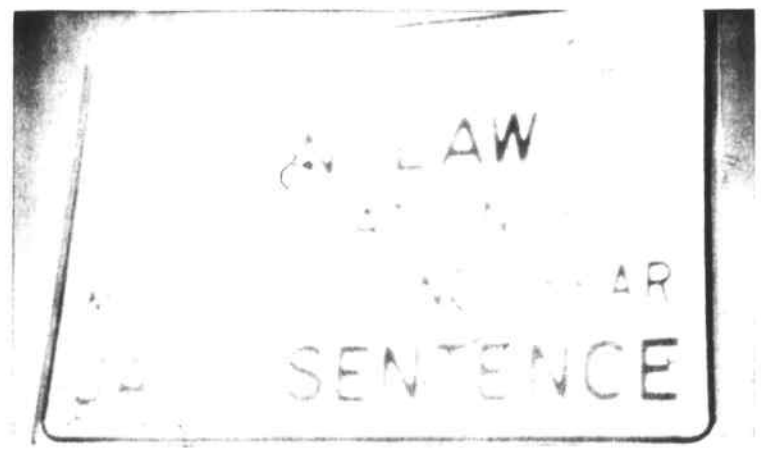
But it is Chief Passaro's belief that any weapon used to commit a crime warrants at least a one-year sentence, though there are always contributing circumstances, he said — and he cannot see a judge putting a person away for a year if no crime has been committed.

"One of the problems of mandatory sentences," the chief said, "Is that a judge will not find a person guilty on a technicality." And in some cases that's o.k., bearing in mind the chief's caveat about contributing circumstances. For example, a person with a permit to carry a firearm in Connecticut is guilty of breaking the law if he carries that same firearm across the state border, if the gun is not also registered in the Bay State. "It's kind of ridiculous to send someone to jail for a year just because he strolled over a state line," he said.

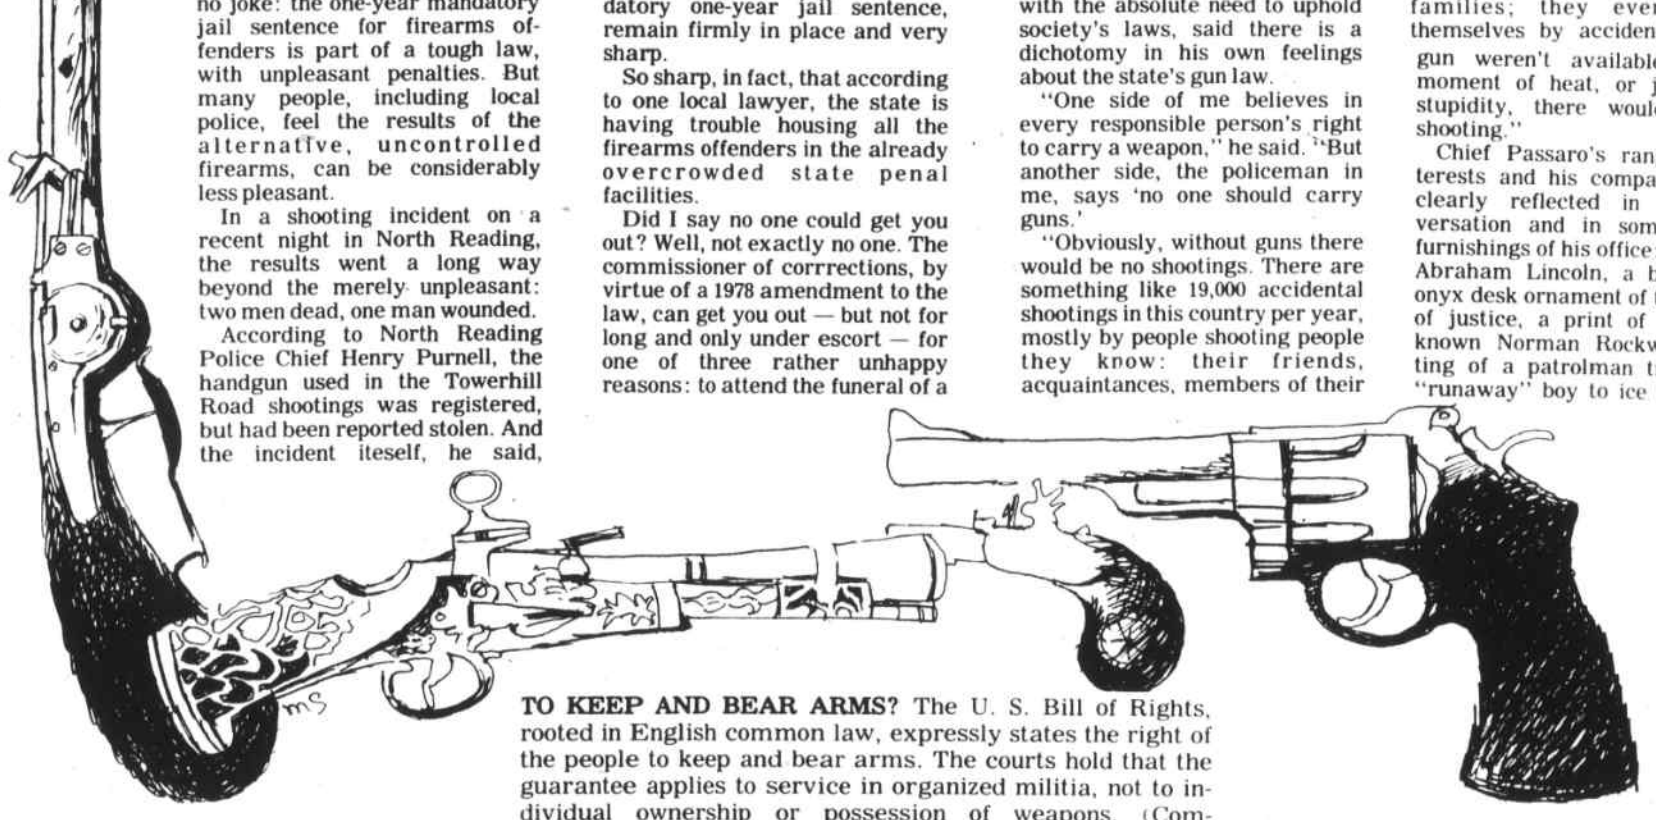
The greatest attention to unregistered firearms in the continuing national debate is given to handguns, but the Massachusetts firearms law applies to pistols, revolvers, rifles, shotguns, air rifles, BB guns, machine guns and sawed-off shotguns.

You can also be jailed in Massachusetts for unlawful carrying of other dangerous weapons, such as stilettos, switch blades, brass knuckles, a "zoobow, also known as klackers or kung fu sticks — a shuriken or any similar pointed starlike object intended to injure a person when thrown, or a manrikigusari or similar length of chain having weighted ends." (Annotated Laws of Massachusetts.) But the minimum guaranteed sentence applies to the firearms offender who carries "on his person, or carries on his person or under his control in a vehicle," -an unlicensed, loaded or unloaded firearm.

GUNS S-4



WARNING: The Bay State means business when it comes to violations of one of the toughest gun laws in the nation and this sign on Interstate Route 93 at the New Hampshire border in Salem carries the message clearly to passing motorists. (Jim Rouillard photo)



TO KEEP AND BEAR ARMS? The U. S. Bill of Rights, rooted in English common law, expressly states the right of the people to keep and bear arms. The courts hold that the guarantee applies to service in organized militia, not to individual ownership or possession of weapons. (Commonwealth vs. Davis, 1976) — Original artwork by Mary Strail.

ROVING

Dan Ferullo

FM TALK: Our far-flung correspondent is taking a brief vacation — we heard somewhere north of Billerica and south of Montreal — but before he left the office he stopped by the Woburn Mall, where he asked a handful of passers-by if they had any special ways to keep cool during the current wave of unusually hot weather we've been experiencing. Here's what they had to say:

A fellow by the name of John Baker told me: "I'm one of those people who's always going around saying 'It's not the heat, it's the humidity.' Well, I'll tell you, it really is the humidity that knocks me off my feet. I can't afford central air conditioning in my house, so every time I get like that, I just open my freezer and stick my head inside until I cool off."

O.K., John. I'll buy that suggestion. Moving on to the next several folks, I discovered that a lot of people like to cool off in very conventional ways: you know, they go for a swim in a backyard pool, or look for the nearest movie house or shopping center. Others were a bit more avant-garde in their approach to cooling down. Like Ann, who agreed to tell me, providing I didn't mention her last name:

"I work in a very small office. Yeah, it's air conditioned, but you'd never know it most of the time, because people are always coming and going, so the hot air is constantly pouring in while the cold air is constantly going out. I have been known to just get up to take a break, leave the office and go for a ride in my car, which is air conditioned, to cool off. I really look forward to the end of the day, getting out of work and into my car. The heavy traffic on 128 doesn't even bother me. I just sit back, turn on the radio and enjoy my air conditioning."

Ann wasn't the only person who said they sneaked away from work to sit in an air conditioned car to cool off. A few, in fact, told me they regularly go for a ride just to switch on their automobile air conditioner and cool off.

Then there were those, well, I guess you'd call them different folks who had some extremely unique ways to cool off. "I work in a supermarket," one fellow told me, "and whenever I get too hot, sav from unloading a truck. I take a break and go sit in the meat freezer. Sides of beef don't provide much stimulating conversation, but staring at them is a heck of a lot cooler than standing around in that sweltering heat."

One other said, "I like it when the sun goes down. Then I take a cold shower, and without drying myself off, I go sit out in my backyard. There's a nice breeze out there at night, and the neighbors can't see me, because I've got all these trees blocking their view. Thank goodness, or else they'd probably be calling the police every night."

Still another: "I take off most of my clothes — I hate clothes in the summertime — and sit on an ice pack, right in front of my fan. That never fails to cool me off."

I wasn't so quick to buy that one, but to each his own, as the old saying goes. I hope one of the articles of clothing he leaves on is his shorts. His girl friend, incidentally, told me that she is seldom bothered by the heat, even the humidity, but added:

"If I do get too hot, I go to Baskin and Robbins and buy an ice cream. Since I love ice cream, I'm always acting like the heat bothers me, just for an excuse for my boyfriend to take me for one."

Now the suggestion I could swallow, no pun intended. An employee for a nearby restaurant walked up to us. When he found out what we were talking about, he offered this pretty neat suggestion:

"I lock myself in the beer cooler. It doesn't curb my desire for a cold beer on a hot day, but it sure does a heck of a job of cooling me off."

A group of four college-aged guys strolled up, and tole me they enjoy an old stand-by means of cooling off: they go to the nearest beach. "Even if you don't always cool off, there are usually a lot of girls to look at, so putting up with the heat is worth it."

Sounded a little chauvinistic, but not a bad idea at all. Even if it wasn't that unusual. I decided it was time for me to cool off in one of my favorite ways: I went into Thackeray's Table & Tap and had a cold beer.

Chestnut Hill Cinema shows 'Gremlins' for Cerebral Palsy

CHESTNUT HILL — The Steven Spielberg production "Gremlins," which had its local premiere at the Chestnut Hill General Cinema in a benefit for United Cerebral Palsy, is half "E.T." and half "Alien" and misses on both counts.

But even though director Joe Dante couldn't decide whether he was telling a cuddly fairy tale or a gruesome horror story, the movie still has some good moments and will entertain most viewers.

The special effects that make the muppet-like "Gizmo" and demon-like gremlins pop to life on the screen are particularly well-done to the point that it is possible to take the creatures as actual living beings.

But even though there are some funny moments, a few shock tactics and enough action to keep the film moving, "Gremlins" lacks focus.

From the moment "Gizmo" is bought in Chinatown with the warning that it be kept in the dark, never be given water and never, never be fed after midnight, the audience knows the warning will be ignored — otherwise there wouldn't be a movie.

Gizmo is a furry ball of fluff with expressive features that would delight any child as a pet and sets off a tone of humor and warmth in the film once he pops on stage.

But the tone quickly devolves when some water is spilled on Gismo and he suddenly pops a half dozen clones from his back.

And when the clones are fed after midnight is when all the fun begins — fun as it would be defined by a gang of drug-crazy bikers from a 1960s movie, that is.

And here is where part of the film's problems arise for Gizmo doesn't eat after midnight, or join the biker frenzy of the other gremlins.

Director Dante repeatedly tries to intercut between the mood of the first part of the movie and the zany terror brought into the dark by the gremlins and it doesn't work.

Another device that doesn't work is that Dante wants the gremlins to terrorize the audience and at the same time tries to squeeze some laughs out of a number of their pranks. It doesn't work.

Yes, there are moments with suspense and shock value and yes there are funny scenes with the gremlins going bananas, but when the two are mixed they detract from each other.

"Gremlins" may also dismay parents who bring their younger children, expecting to see a charmer like "E.T."

Well, "E.T." "Gremlins" ain't.

Some moments in the film might give particularly young tykes a bad dream or two.

See "Gremlins," for it isn't bad for a summer movie, but don't expect to be blown away by it.

The year in jail gun law ten years later

What about air rifles and BB guns? Chief Passaro said he didn't know if anyone has been convicted under the mandatory jail-sentence provision for unlawful carrying of a BB gun, but again he stressed circumstances. "I can't imagine a judge giving a sentence to a 12-year-old who is carrying a BB gun," he said.

The side of Chief Passaro which says no one should carry guns is based on past experience, which is at once both professional and deeply personal. A police veteran whose career spans 23 years and has included service on a S.W.A.T. team, the chief knows and respects guns. He came to Stoneham from Stamford, Connecticut, a much larger community than Stoneham, where he had witnessed a lot of shootings.

STONEHAM POLICE CHIEF Eugene Passaro: "One side of me believes in every responsible person's right to carry a weapon. But another side, the policeman in me, says 'No one should carry guns.' " (Jim Rouillard photo)

He has seen police officers killed and he has seen police kill other people, and he said the after-effects can be deep and far-reaching:

"There have been studies done in the last five years, of post-shooting trauma, to measure the effects on a police officer who shoots another person. In most cases a policeman who has killed is off the force within three years, and those three years are hell."

Chief Passaro said a close friend of his on the S.W.A.T. team killed a man, in the line of duty, who was trying to kill him: "He'd responded to a call that a man was holding hostages. When he got to the door, it flew open, and my friend was faced with a man pointing a gun straight at him. the man pulled the trigger Three times: click...click...click. He had no choice but to shoot."

Ballistics tests on the dead man's gun later showed a scoring mark on each of the three bullets in the chamber, Chief Passaro said, which revealed the firing pin was just defective enough so that no bullet was fired, "but the effects on my friend were devastating."

Is the law working? Does it deter crime?

Hard to say, according to Chief Passaro: "What deters crime? It's impossible to measure because there are so many variables. But if the law saves one life in 20 years then it's well worth it.

"I've made it tough for people to get licenses for handguns. I have the power to issue a license or not and recent court decisions have strengthened the power of the police chiefs to use discretionary means in deciding whether to issue a permit.

"I have put in many restrictions: the applicant must first pass a written test — and must then pass a proficiency test given by one of five FBI or NRA certified instructors who are members of the Stoneham Police Department. Or his proficiency may also be determined by a certified instructor outside the SPD.

"I institute a background check on the person, asking the board of probation if there are any arrests in his history, and I conduct a character check if that seems warranted."

Odd as it may seem, the chief said, there is a large number of people with permits who have never even owned or fired a weapon: "If for some reason, they now decide to get a gun, to protect themselves or for whatever reason, they may not know how to use it, and that's how people get hurt.

"People must realize that a gun is not a toy. Children should be taught never to point a play gun at anyone, because once a bullet leaves that barrel it cannot be retrieved."

Bullets fired cannot be retrieved and, so far, the Commonwealth's tough gun law — though challenged — has not been repealed or changed substantially by amendment. Among other things, the courts have found:

—That the law does not violate the right of the people to keep and bear arms (Commonwealth vs. Davis, 1976.)

—That it does not violate the due process clause of the 14th Amendment to the Constitution (McQuoid vs. Smith, 1977.)

—That it does not violate the provision guaranteeing separation of the three branches of government (Commonwealth vs. Jackson, 1976.)

—That it does not deprive equal protection under the laws (Commonwealth vs. McQuoid, 1976.)

—That it does not constitute cruel or unusual punishment (McQuoid vs. Smith.)

And that's only a sampling of the cases which have arisen from the law. To date, the granite in the law remains intact — with the police and courts hoping that it does, indeed, help deter crime.

"If they didn't have guns, they wouldn't be killing," Chief Passaro said. "But how do you measure deterrence? We hope it deters; we pray that it does. But just because we pass laws doesn't mean people will obey them. If people obeyed all the laws, there would be no need for the police — I'd be out of a job — and the court system would be like the Mayan ruins, just sitting there."

Unlike the Mayan ruins, the Massachusetts gun law is not just sitting there. It's active and alive. In fact, it might more aptly be compared to a vengeful Mayan deity whose teeth and claws, for convicted offenders, are very sharp and very, very real.

Elderly compete in cook-off

Everett's Armory was abounding recently with the visual and aromatic delight of recipes prepared by area elders for Mystic Valley Elder Services' First Annual "New Horizons-New Nutrition" Recipe Contest and Cook-Off. The contest, organized by Mystic Valley Elder Services and DAKA, Mystic Valley's elder meal program caterer, was designed to demonstrate that favorite recipes can be modified to reduce sodium, fat, cholesterol and sugar content by substituting other ingredients without detracting from taste and appearance.

Forty-seven elders from Everett, Malden, Medford, Melrose, Reading, Stoneham and Wakefield participated in the contest. Prior to the Cook-Off, recipes had been submitted and were judged for nutritional value by DAKA Nutritionists Rosalyn Aratarian, Shirley Chao and Leslie Delory, Simmons College Nutrition student Laura Lundgren, and Nancy Stutzman, a Home Economist with the Middlesex County Extension Service. At the Cook-Off, a panel of celebrity judges rated entries from Main Dish, Salad-Vegetable, Bread and Desert categories on taste, appearance and whether the recipe was different enough to be interesting. Judging the Main Dishes were Terry Vince, President of DAKA and Marion Whiting, Mystic Valley Elder Services Board President, while Harry "Buddy" Coholan of the Everett Chamber of Commerce and Mystic Valley Elder Services Executive Director Dan O'Leary enjoyed dessert entries.

Breads were tasted by Boston Herald Food Editor Christina Bowman and Department of Elder Affairs Nutritionist Joanne Lee while Jay Luppold of the Malden Evening News and Everett Mayor Edward Connolly rated the Salad-Vegetable entries.

During the judging, the over two hundred fifty people attending the event were treated to the music of pianist Audrey DerVartarian and organist Claire Rocco. They were also invited to view the entries which were displayed as the judging was winding down.

Following lunch, first, second and third prize winners were announced in each category and a number of gift certificates were raffled. Contributing prizes or raffle gifts were Brandano's Restaurant, Bransfield-Kaulbach Florist, Brighams, Burger King, Cerretani Supermarket, Channel One, Essex Bank, Friendly's of Malden and Wakefield, The Ground Round, Heartland Supermarket, Highland Cafe, Johnny Foodmaster, Mal's Market, Edith O'Leary of North Reading, Pottle Florist, Spadafora Florist and Walsh Florist.

Following is a listing of winners and their recipes. First prize winners will be competing in a state-wide Cook-Off at the Copley Place Marriot in Boston on June 27.

Main dishes: Mildred Betchel of Medford, Hawaiian Chicken Casserole (1st); Josephine Collins of Everett, Crabmeat Mousse (2nd) and George Howe of Reading, Chicken Vegetable Stew (3rd).

Salad-Vegetables: Marie Kazmurczah of Everett, Vegetables Au Gratin (1st); Marie Martinez of Everett, Cauliflower Cheese Soup and Mary Piorun of Everett, Quick & Easy Vegetable Soup (2nd); Erick Nitzchi of Reading, Potato-Onion Hash (3rd).

Bread: Irene Veitch of Stoneham, Oatmeal-Molasses Bread (1st); Louise Constantine of Medford, Banana Bread (2nd); and Elsie Mae Collins of Reading, Date Nut Bread (3rd).

Dessert: Doris Dixon of Medford, Ozark Pie (1st); Agnes Poulin of Malden, Poor Man's Squares (2nd); and Lois Ryan of Wakefield, Baked Apple Crisp (3rd).

Based upon the response from those attending the event, it was an unqualified success. According to Ms. Linda Williams, Mystic Valley Elder Services Nutrition Program Director, the Cook-Off has generated increased interest in nutrition education at Mystic Valley elder meal sites and has spurred many elders to ask "when can we submit a recipe for next year"?

VA questions-answers

Q. — My husband died in 1967. At that time I applied for a VA pension and have been receiving $98 per month but have not received any increase in five years. I can't afford to pay my bills. What can I do?

A. — As long as you remain under the protected VA pension program, in which your income cannot exceed $6,000, you will continue to receive $98 per month unless you lose a dependent. You may request that you be considered for the Improves Pension Plan. If Va determines you would be eligible for a higher amount, you may wish to elect the new program.

Q. — What does the term "conversion" mean with regard to GI Insurance?

A. — Conversion means exchanging a term policy for a permanent plan of insurance. A permanent plan policy offers a premium, which never increases from the rate set at the effective date of the policy. In contrast, term policy rates increase at each five-year renewal period.

EATING AND WEIGHT CONTROL
A New Program

Donald Pugatch, M.D. and Eating Disorders Associates announces the expansion of services with a new eating and weight control program. This program is geared to overweight and obese people who have been unsuccessful at losing weight and maintaining weight loss in other programs.

The unique feature of the program is the identification and treatment of abnormal eating patterns, anxiety, depression and biochemical imbalances in the brain and the body which are associated with eating disorders, overweight and obsesity.

Abnormal food intake may be an unsuccessful attempt to self medicate and correct a chemically induced eating and weight disorder. Our goal is to normalize weight and eating by achieving short and long term chemical balance.

A Multi-disciplinary program
1) Psychological evaluation
2) Special thyroid function and stress assessment
3) Medical and risk factor evaluation: hypertension, stroke, cardiovascular disease and diabetes
4) Nutrional evaluation
5) Healthstyle and activity evaluation

Comprehensive treatment:
1) Normalization of disordered eating patterns with:
a) Psychotherapy: body image improvements, self esteem enhancement
b) Behavior modification
c) Specific nutrients
d) Medication
2) Diet: weight loss and LONG TERM MAINTENANCE structure
3) Activity assessment and individualized exercise prescription
4) Relaxation and visualization
5) Meditation
6) Nutritional Education: Low fat and low sugar cooking principles; recipe instruction
7) Assertiveness and self awareness techniques

VISITING DAY

Naval Air Station South Weymouth, Massachusetts, will open its gates to the general public on its annual "Visiting Day," Saturday, June 23.

This year's event, called "Explore '84," will feature a variety of static aircraft displays, rescue-survival equipment and support vehicles. Runners are invited to register for a 10K Road Race (786-2619), and enthusiasts of radio-controlled aircraft will be treated to aerial demonstrations.

The main gate (approached via White Street in South Weymouth) will open at 10 a.m. The day's activities will commence at 10:30, with a parade featuring the Colonial Pipers and the St. Francis Drum & Bugle Corps. Admission is free and refreshments will be available.

Bring the whole family for a day of fun and see first-hand how the Naval Reserve serves you!

INSTRUMENTALISTS

The Harvard Summer Pops Band, conducted by Thomas Everett is open to all wind and percussion instrumentalists in the Boston area without audition. Rehearsals are held every Wednesday evening June 27 through August 8 from 7:15 — 9:30 p.m. at Sanders Theatre, Harvard University. If you are interested just show up at the first rehearsal on June 27 with your instrument. Bring a folding stand if you have one.

The Summer Pops Band will read and rehearse music of Ludwig van Beethoven, J.S. Bach, Gustav Holst, George M. Cohan, Richard Rogers, and more. Two outdoor concerts, one at the Hatch Memorial Shell and one in Harvard Yard, are scheduled for August.

For more information call 495-2000 (afternoons), or write to Director of Band, Harvard University, 9 Prescott Street, Cambridge, Ma. 02138.

The program will be "Smocking Bonnets and Hats". For further information call 273-0884.

ASBESTOS IN SCHOOLS

A public hearing will be held in Boston on June 28 to enable interested persons to inform the federal government on how to improve or change asbestos in school rules.

A citizen's petition, filed by the Service Employees International Union, requested the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) to write uniform, federal rules requiring the cleanup of asbestos in schools. In addition, the petition requested that EPA set standards to protect people performing asbestos cleanup activities, and write regulations for inspections and cleanup of asbestos in other public and commercial buildings. The petition was filed on November 16, 1983.

On April 17, 1984, EPA agreed to consider the Union's requests and seek public comments on their feasibility.

On May 27, 1982, EPA issued asbestos in school rules requiring all public and private elementary and secondary school officials, by June 28, 1983, to have inspected their buildings for friable materials, sampled and analyzed any friable materials for asbestos, notified parents and employees of any asbestos found, and maintained records certifying compliance with the regulations.

Friable materials are those that, when dry, may be crumbled, pulverized or reduced to powder by hand pressure.

The May 1982 rules did not, however, set a federal requirement for cleaning up asbestos found in schools. At that time EPA could not come up with a scientific and technically feasible way of setting a uniform national abatement requirement. In addition, EPA felt that local school officials — working with concerned parents and on-site technical experts on a case-by-case basis — could assure a maximum asbestos cleanup throughout the country.

The meeting will be held at the Gardiner Auditorium, State House and will begin at 9:00 a.m. Anyone seeking more information or wishing to make a statement at the hearing should reserve a time by calling (800) 424-9065 (toll free).

SEPARATION AND DIVORCE

"Healing Yourself During Separation and Divorce" is the title of a free lecture-discussion to be held at 8:00 P.M. on Monday, June 25, at Riverside Family Institute offices, 259 Walnut Street, Room 14, Newtonville. This meeting examines the emotional and social changes that usually occur after separation. The processes of holding on, letting go, getting started, and developing a new life will be discussed. The lecture-discussion is one in a series of lectures offered by Riverside Institute. For more information call 964-6933.

RIVER FESTIVAL

The Cambridge River Festival will climax with the Street Performers' Festival on the Cambridge Common, just north of Harvard Square, on Saturday, June 23 from 11 a.m. to 7 p.m. (raindate: June 24).

Singers, jugglers, mimes, magicians, musicians, clowns, storytellers, and more will gather to perform on three stages and other locations at the Cambridge Common throughout the day. More than 100 booths will feature the Worlds of Food and Crafts where Festival-goers can sample some of the best food and handcrafts in the area.

Colorful, captivating and sometimes flamboyant, street performers capture the energy and excitement of the city and create a positive ambiance which animates public places and encourages community interaction. Street performing holds a traditional and historical place in American society. Many notables, such as Irving Berlin, began their careers as street performers, and even Ben Franklin sang broadsides on the Boston Common.

In keeping with the traditional nature of street performing, the performances will be unamplified. Festival goers are encouraged to bring folding chairs and to be prepared to support their favorite performers when they "pass the hat".

VOLUNTEERS NEEDED

The Museum of Science needs volunteers for the Live Animal Center, to help clean cages and spruce up the animals' living area. The Great Clean-Up takes place every day from 9 to 5, and anyone over 14 is invited to take part. There's a choice of hours — morning, afternoon, or even all day. And the days you come in are up to you. The Museum asks only that you sign up for at least 2 days per week.

Right now the Animal Center is home to an unusual assortment of wildlife — from a great horned owl, to a porcupine, to an albino ferret and an 8-foot boa constrictor. Most of the animals are orphans or abandoned pets and can no longer be returned to the wild. The Museum's staff uses them now in demonstrations and classroom programs to educate the public about animal behavior and the role of wildlife in nature.

Volunteering in the Animal Center means having unique responsibility and working with a dedicated crew of people who share a love of animals. It also means learning about a lot of different animals — perhaps even some you never knew existed!

Anyone interested in this adventurous opportunity should get in touch with the Volunteer Office at the Museum of Science, at 723-2500, ext. 259.

MODEL LOG HOMES

The popularity of log homes has grown steadily since the early 1970's. Today well over a quarter of a million families in the United States and Canada live in modern log homes and over 15,000 new log homes are being build annually, according to information released by the Log Home Information Center in Falls Church, Virginia. There are over 175 manufacturers producing logs for the log home kits used to build most of these homes, and nearly 600 home builders nationwide now specialize in building log homes.

Most of these local home builders maintain a model log home which is open to the public; however, locating these model homes can be a bit of a problem since most are located in rural settings just outside many major metropolitan areas.

To help the public locate model log homes in their area, the Log Home Information Center has compiled a listing of over 500 model log homes in the United States and Canada and has published this information in 10 regional Model Log Home Locator pamphlets which are available free.

Each regional pamphlet contains the locations of approximately 75 model log homes in a three or four state area. Individual listings contain the name of the log home builder, the address and telephone number, name of the model home, the manufacturer, names of sales personnel at the model home and hours of operation on both weekdays and weekends.

To obtain a free copy of one or more regional pamphlets, send the names of the states you wish to receive and $1.00 to cover cost of postage and handling to: Log Home Information Center, P.O. Box 2078, Falls Church, Va. 22042, or call (703) 241-5560.

Retired Men's Club

The June 13 meeting of the Wakefield Retired Men's Club had such a long agenda that President Wentzel called the meeting to order early. The program included the election of officers for the 1983-1984 year, reports of various committees, and entertainment by several talented members.

The nominating committee consisting of the following three former presidents, Richard S. Taylor, Wakefield; George F. Flewelling, Lynnfield; and Chairman Tom Coughlan, Melrose; presented the following slate of officers: for president, Leslie E. Merrifield, Middleton; 1st vice president, George M. Richards, Reading; 2nd vice president, Frank X. Day, Reading; secretary, Alfred E. Webber, Wakefield; asst. secretary, Bradford E. Waterman, Wakefield; treasurer, Robert D. Mathias, Wakefield; asst. treasurer, Charles M. Strauss, Melrose; registrar, Ralph H. Wentzel, Wakefield.

President Wentzel called for further nominations from the floor. No names were proposed. It was moved, seconded and voted that the nominations be closed. Rod MacDonald of Reading then moved that the secretary cast one ballot for the slate of officers proposed and this was seconded and approved.

President Wentzel announced the attendance was 227. Visitors introduced were John H. Ericson of Malden, Charles H. Kelley of Wakefield, and Frederick W. Mathes of Malden. Michael Saija of Reading received his membership card.

Second Vice President George Richards read the names of 39 members who had birthdays and the 15 present received the usual greetings from the members led by Tom Coughlan. Tom also conducted the door prize drawings which were won by Dick Costa of Melrose, William Harris of Stoneham, and Alex Crabbe of Lynn.

Bob Thomas thanks the members for their active support of the Beverly School for the Deaf through their contributions of Campbell Soup Labels. John Griffin presented his Sick and Visitation report.

Other committee reports followed: John Vernon, chairman of the Safety Committee announced three new members: John Horton, Wakefield; Don Marshall, Wakefield; and William Smith, Wakefield. Camera Club activities were reported by Henry Porter, president.

On Tuesday, June 19 Ladies Day climaxed a very successful and entertaining season. A program "Boston, Yesterday and Today" was given by Henry Porter with comments and slides.

Bowling accomplishments were announced by Dick Taylor who proudly displayed the trophy which once again was won from the Needham Men's Club.

Chet Card requested members submit their favorite band numbers for the program that the Band will play at the June 27 meeting.

Jim Boyd, president of the Stamp Club, related the club's activities and announced new

Local radio hams test emergency system

On the weekend of June 23-24 from 2 p.m. Saturday to 2 p.m. Sunday, members of the Billerica Amateur Radio Society will participate in the 51st Annual American Radio Relay League Field Day emergency preparedness test called "Field Day" open to the public.

On this weekend, thousands of Amateur Radio operators (hams) in the U.S. and Canada set up their stations in the open using only emergency power and portable antennas. They contact as many operators as possible in the 24-hour period. These tests are designed to help hams refine operating skills so necessary during disasters and times of emergency when normal channels of communication are disrupted or unavailable.

In recognition of this event, the president has proclaimed June 17-23 as Amateur Radio Week.

The operation site this year for the Billerica Amateur Radio Society is the Lowell Sportsmen's Club, located off of Swain Road in North Chelmsford. Members of the public are invited to view this 24-hour continuous operation. Members of the club will be on hand to answer any questions about equipment, procedures and the public service role that Amateur Radio plays in the community.

Field Day is sponsored by the American Radio Relay League, a membership society of U.S. and Canadian Amateur Radio operators with headquarters in Newington, Connecticut.

Additional information about this event or about amateur radio can be obtained by contacting the chairman of the Field Day Activity, Mr. Steve Wedge of Concord at 369-5977. Visitors to the transmitting site at the Lowell Sportsmen's Club are also welcome during the 24-hour period.

President of the Billerica Club, Mr. Peter Quinn of Chelmsford invites all of the Merrimack Valley citizens to come up to the Lowell Sportsmen's Club and see Amateur Radio being operated under simulated emergency conditions. After all, according to Mr. Quinn, "...the Billerica Amateurs are a community resource ready to assist the entire Merrimack Valley in the event of an emergency requiring communications."

NEMH SPONSORS Bay State Triathlon

Triathlon competition is the fastest growing sport in America today. Considered the "fitness craze of the '80's, the sport combines running, biking, and swimming in one event.

For the first time, New England Memorial Hospital in Stoneham will sponsor the Bay State Triathlons, held June 24 and August 12, with over 250 triathletes enrolled in each race. Organized by the Dave McGillivray Running and Sports Center, the Bay State consists of a one-mile swim, 40-mile cycle, and 10-mile run, and is a qualifier for the "world class" Hawaiian Iron Man.

Training for a triathlon may sound grueling but when done in moderation can actually produce a well-conditioned athlete. Medical Director of Rehabilitation Services at NEMH, Dr. Raymond Igou points out that, "Triathletes are in better shape than long-distance runners because they utilize all of the muscle groups, giving them a balanced conditioning process."

The Wall Street Journal recently reported that, "As the country's fascination with fitness grows, the triathlon offers a new world to conquer. For the growing army of exercise enthusiasts in pursuit of cardiovascular perfection, it promises a kind of aerobic ultimate."

On June 24, spectators are invited to come out and cheer the participants on, beginning at 7 a.m. with their swim in Medford's Wright Pond, followed by biking eight circuits, and running twice around nearby Spot Pond. The finish line will be at the MDC Skating Rink. Over 250 athletes have signed up to participate.

Along with other race personnel, NEMH physicians will staff the course and finish line as well as provide medical assistance and advice where needed. Following the event, the NEMH physical therapy department will be open to competitors for whirlpool treatments and-or showers.

Volunteers are needed. For further information, contact the Dave McGillivray Running and Sports Center in Medford.

Medi-Mate service

The New England Memorial Hospial has activated a new community service called Medi-Mate which allows subscribers to automatically call the hospital's emergency room for assistance in cases of sudden illness or accidents 24 hours a day.

According to program coordinator Scott Greenough, the Medi-Mate program is designed to meet the needs of the elderly, handicapped or functionally impaired individuals who live alone. It also benefits anyone with medical problems such as diabetes, seizures, cardiac disorders, sudden dizziness or fainting spells, says Greenough.

If a subscriber should suffer an accident or sudden illness he or she can press a button on the Medi-Mate unit (or on a hand-held remote control transmitter) and the alarm system will activate the receiver unit housed in the hospital's emergency room. A trained operator can then quickly take the appropriate action and dispatch assistance.

Medi-Mate is available for a monthly fee of $15. For more information on the Medi-Mate system contact Scott Greenough at 665-1740, ext. 320.

Ghostbusters Gremlins

"Ghostbusters," starring Bill Murray, Dan Aykroyd, Sigourney Weaver, Harold Ramis and Rick Moranis. Directed and produced by Ivan Reitman. Written by Aykroyd and Ramis. Rated PG (profanity).

A beautiful cellist in New York City is having a slight problem with a major kitchen appliance. It seems her refrigerator is haunted by an ancient cult seeking to fulfill the carnage promised in the Old Testament come Judgement Day. No problem. She picks up her phone and calls the local parapsychologists for help. With sirens blaring and lights flashing, the Ghostbusters come to her rescue.

This odd bunch of ectoplasmic crunchers is made up of that rare breed of genius that borders on lunacy, and it is Bill Murray with his serious mannerisms and mocking answers who leads the way. When Sigourney Weaver shows Murray her haunted fridge, she informs the spook doctor that he doesn't act like a scientist, but more like a game show host. She couldn't have painted a more accurate portrait of this phantasmic tale. It is the Ghostbusters' ability to feign credibility in the face of insanity that keeps the audience howling so that one can barely hear the dialogue.

Dan Aykroyd is the heart and Harold Ramis the brains behind this group of dedicated men determined to free NYC, and Weaver, from pre-biblical haunts. Rounding out this fine, if a bit crazed, cast is Rick Moranis (better known as one of the McKenzie brothers from Second City TV) as one of the best nerds ever captured on film. So enjoy, this is one film worth the price of admission, even the second time around.

"Gremlins," starring Zach Galligan, Phoebe Cates, Hoyt Axton, and Polly Holliday. Directed by Joe Dante. Written by Chris Columbus. Rated PG (mild profanity and violence).

Who's that pulling the brakes out of the friendly policeman's car? And what was that scurrying through the bushes? Did you feel something nip at your toes? Nothing to fear, it was little more than the feral creatures now invading movie theaters and department stores around the country.

BILL MURRAY, Dan Aykroyd and Harold Ramis (l-r) challenge New York City's finest phantasms in Columbia Pictures' new comedy, "Ghostbusters," produced and directed by Ivan Reitman from an original screenplay by Aykroyd and Ramis. Sigourney Weaver and Rick Moranis also star.

Gremlins don't start out as gremlins, they start out as enchanting, furry critters called Mogwais, that roll their eyes and sing lovely little ditties. Want to own one? Just follow whese three rules: never give it water; never shine bright light on it; and NEVER feed it after midnight, or you just might end up with something green and scaley and far from adorable.

Oh, there is one more rule — open up your wallet, because executive producer Steven Spielberg is launching a marketing campaign, which, if successful, could finance his next movie. Does this imply that director Joe Dante and Spielberg had one eye on the cash register and one eye on the camera? Indubitably. The gremlins are a bit too muppetish and cute, even when they're supposed to be scaring the hell out of the audience, and the direction is often manipulative. But, commercial is what sells, and this flick is guaranteed to sell.

Despite the obvious crass appeal to consumerism, the audiences are enjoying "Gremlins." The violence isn't really much worse than what the average child sees during Saturday morning cartoons. And Dante does have an accurate sense of comic timing, plus a few ghoulish tricks up his sleeve that ensures some moments which are as spooky as a midnight rendevous in a haunted house.

Over 250,000

Grants for every purpose

The National Freshwater Fishing Hall of Fame tried to get a grant to buld a game fish over half a block long and five stories tall. They tried but were not successful. They did get $250,000 from local bankers, however. There are grants for almost every purpose. The Fats and Proteins Research Foundation funds research into the uses of poultry. The Herb Society of America also makes grants.

Whether you like fish or fowl, with or without seasoning, there are grants for just about every purpose," says Norton Kiritz, President of The Grantsmanship Center, the country's largest fundraising training organization. The Center is coming to Boston on July 12, 1984 to conduct a three day training program in the art of writing grant proposals. During the past eleven years the Center has trained more than 30,000 persons from private and government agencies in how to raise funds for their projects.

"There are more than 250,000 private agencies, and thousands of government departments competing for grants," says Kiritz. "Federal funds have been slashed. Foundations and corporations receive ten or more proposals for every one they can support. Skill in writing proposals is more important than ever before."

The Mass. Society For The Prevention Of Cruelty To Children is sponsoring this workshop in Boston, which is open to the staff of any local agency. There is a tuition charge and scholarships are available for organizations with small budgets. Information on the proposal writing workshop can be obtained from Ms. Karen Rapoza-Galligan at the Mass. Society For The Prevention Of Cruelty To Children, (617) 227-2280, or by calling the Grantsmanship Center's toll-free number (800) 421-9512.

Woodchips

By ANTHONY MANCONI

I asked my friend, Al Pymm, an Air Force Colonel (Reserves) and amateur astrologer if he believed in UFOs or flying saucers. Al thought a while, then shrugged his shoulders and said, "No 'Comet!' "

One of my aunts asked a lawyer to file papers for a divorce. "Tell me," said the kind, elderly attorney, "do you have grounds?" "Oh, yes," replied Aunt Maria, "about a half an acre." "Do you have a grudge?" "No," was the gem of a reply, "we have a carport." "Well, then," the lawyer continued, "does your husband beat you up?" "No, I rise earlier than he does." In exasperation and exhaustion, the attorney asked, "Will you please tell me, madame, just why you do want a divorce?" "My husband John snores in his sleep!" I'll bet there are a lot of people who sympathize with her — it's much easier to fall asleep living next to a boiler factory working a night shift than it is next to someone who snores.

On a picturesque contry road in New Hampshire, a sign suggests that you turn off the car radio because the hills are alive with the sound of music.

A high school student was seated next to a famous scientist at a dinner party. "What do you do, sir?" asked the young man. "I study science," replied the gray-haired gentleman. "Really!" exclaimed the surprised student, "I finished science last year!"

I was talking to a friend from North Reading when he abruptly left me, walked over about 10 feet and stomped on a large ant. I was surprised for a moment, then asked him why did he do a thing like that? The ant wasn't bothering him, me, or anyone else. He was aghast at my question for he stuttered and stammered and then said, "For crying out loud — it was only a lousy ant! What's the big deal? What are you, nuts?" I couldn't help remembering reading about the famous Dr. Albert Schwitzer, eminent doctor of medicine, famed musician, composer and prolific writer. One day while walking in the jungles of French Equatorial Africa, he put out his hands to stop his staff from proceeding because a colony of ants was crossing the path. Who would ever think of asking if Dr. Schweitzer was nuts?

The world has gone inflation crazy — rents in ordinary neighborhoods go for five, six and seven hundred dollars a month; automobiles cost anywhere from 30 to 50 thousand dollars; and a one-pound loaf of Italian bread is almost a dollar! Is it any wonder that some people are singing that song, 'Stop the World, I Want to Get Off?'

Professionals and super-skilled craftsmen and women can almost keep abreast of the rising tidal wave that threatens to drown us all. But how about those on a fixed income, retirees or the disabled? And to make matters worse, this is what occurred today. I answered the doorbell and a muscular, adonis-type young man asks me if I would contribute to send him to a summer camp. "What do you usually get?" "Oh, at least five dollars," he replied. "Fine," I answered, "I'll give you 10 dollars — there's a lawn mower and there's the grass — it will take you about an hour, and when you're done I'll give your the 10 dollars." He took a step back in surprise and nearly fell off the stairs. When he recovered from the shock, he looked at me and said, "What are you, one of those crazy Republicans I hear about? Why, I can get five times that amount in the next hour just by ringing doorbells! Go mow your own lawn, pop!" There's part of the answer why the world has gone mad — something for nothing.

My little cousin, Mark Aloisi, who will grow up to be a genius some day, told me that Sunday is the strongest day — all the others are 'weak days.'

Oil was discovered on my cousin Frank Mazzoni's property in Wilmington. It wasn't a 'gusher' like they have in Texas, it was more like a 'drip' like you see in any automobile junkyard. Frank's old clunker of a car sprung a crankcase leak.

In Montana, many years ago the penalty for stealing a horse was to be the invited guest of honor at a morning necktie party. One morning at sunrise, John Doe was led to the gallows, where it was discovered that someone stole the rope during the night. With upraised eyes and a sigh of relief, John exclaimed, "Glory by, no noose is good noose!"

Every time I walk into Jack Reilly's Variety store in Woburn, I recall the time I worked in a similar store in Wakefield. A sweet old lady asked me, "How much are your eggs, sonny?" "Eighty cents a dozen," I replied, "the cracked ones are 40 cents a dozen." "Good," she said, " Crack me a dozen."

My little nephew, Mark O'Donnell, was saying his prayers when his mother, Maureen, from an adjacent room said, "Mark, I can't hear you!" "I wasn't talking to you, Ma," he replied.

John Mullen, of Burlington, retired from Boston Edison, sent a 'wire' to his brother Charlie, telling him 'watts' new and other 'current' events.

I've always said that Bill McGar, of the Woburn Elks, reminds me of the late Boston Strongboy John L. Sullivan, boxing champion of the world. Bill is as big and strong and handsome as John L. was, and is indeed a gentleman.

Here are the names of four beautiful young ladies who I haven't seen for over a year — Mary Ellen Mahoney, Denise

The selection of child care center important

The selection of a child's day care center may be one of the most important choices a parent can make. There are over 1600 group day care centers licensed in Massachusetts to provide care for children in non-residential settings. In selecting a day care center, what information should a parent have?

The state's Office for Children, assisted by an advisory task force of parents, health care professionals, educators and center owners, has developed a set of regulations and standards for group day care centers. Based on those standards, the following are important factors to consider in selecting a non-residential group day care center for your child. (Family day care homes will be the subject of a subsequent Consumer Alert).

Parent Involvement: A center should not only allow but encourage parents to visit the center and offer suggestions on the center's policies and programs. Ask the center how parent suggestions are incorporated into the program. Also, ask how often progress reports are prepared on children. A center should either meet with parents or provide them with a written progress report at least every six months on their child's activities, participation and special problems, if any.

Staffing: Day care centers are required to keep a listing of their staffs' qualifications and the staff schedules. Ask to see these listings so you can determine who will be on duty when your child is present and what background each staff member has.

Group Sizes: Ask how many children of your child's age are grouped together. Even the best teacher or assistant can only supervise so many children at one time. The limits established by the Office for Children are:

—infants (under 15 months) should be in groups no larger than seven, with two staff members assigned if the group exceeds three;

—toddlers (15 to 33 months) should be in groups no larger than eight, with two staff members if the group exceeds four;

—children two years, nine months to four years, nine months should be in groups no larger than 20 (or 24 if the center is half-day) with one staff member for each 10 children; and —children four years, nine months to seven years should be in groups no larger than thirty, with one staff member for each 15 children.

Activities: A day care center is required to develop a written plan describing its activities for a typical week. Ask to see the center's written plan describing its activities for a typical week. Ask to see the center's written plan, and determine:

—does it give children an opportunity for sufficient exercise?

—are children taught basic self-help skills such as dressing, tying shoes, and using eating utensils properly?

—is there an adequate rest or quiet activity period every day?

—are the center's activities in harmony with your life style and culture?

Health Care: Every day care center must have a written health care statement, including the name of a particular doctor or registered nurse who will be available for emergencies and consultations. The health care statement should also contain procedures to be followed in case of illness or emergency, including transportation methods, notification of parents and procedures in case the parents cannot be reached.

Food: If a center provides meals for children, it must prepare a written menu. Inspect the written menu for the week, and be sure to visit the kitchen and dining areas to be sure that the facilities and utensils are maintained in a sanitary condition and that the tables and chairs used for dining are a proper shape and size for your child's age group.

The listing above obviously includes only a few of the important factors for parents to consider. MASSPIRG consumer attorney Jody Forchheimer advises: "The process of choosing a day care center requires a parent to use all of his or her skills as an inquisitive, persistent and informed consumer. If the center is hesitant about showing you its written listings and answering your questions on staff, activities, health care and meals, you may be at the wrong day care center."

For more information on child care, contact the Child Care Resource Center at 24 Thorndike Street, Cambridge, Ma. 02141, telephone (617) 547-9861. The Child Care Resource Center publishes a monthly newsletter on child care as well as pamphlets on how to select day care, babysitters and summer camps.

members will be welcome at the next meeting on September 11.

Henry Murphy announced programs for the Trip Committee: Red Sox vs. Seattle baseball game will be on June 30. A Boston Harbor annual sail will be either July 9 or 10. Sufficient time will be allowed after the sail for Quincy Market sightseeing and shopping in the area.

On July 19 a trip is planned to the Lowell National Park. This will include a ride on the canals followed by a buffet lunch at Windsor Mills.

The annual George's Island Trip is scheduled for August 2. This will include a tour of Fort Warren where many captured Southern soldiers were incarcerated during the Civil War.

A trip will be planned to the N.H. Deerfield Fair if sufficient interest is shown. In September a trip will be made to the Eastern State Exposition in Springfield.

Bob Brown is actively engaged in forming a golf group to play one day a week. Arrangements can be made for the time at the Woburn Country Club if sufficient members sign up.

Paul Ehlert announced a fishing trip off Plum Island on June 14. Other fishing trips can be arranged from time to time.

Jimmy Fanikos, a pharmacist, was asked by my aunt what she could take if she's run down. "The first thing to take," responded Jimmy, "is the license plate number."

Two personal friends of mine, Jill Nottebart and Mary Jane Seaberg of Stoneham, read this column every week. Jill will graduate from Stoneham High School this June and then attend Mass. College of Art. Mary Jane will continue her studies at Simmons.

My cousin, Dean Murphy, wanted an apartment in an exclusive section of Lynnfield. He was asked, "Do you have any children — do you play a musical instrument — do you have a dog, cat or a parrot?" "No," said the now confused and bewildered Dean, "but I must confess that I do have a fountain pen that scratches now and then!"

MY OLD MODEL 'T'

A bucket of nuts, a bushel of bolts, that's what my car is today.
Automatic choke, electronic valves, all have their part to play.
With the PCV and the EGR
pollution control devices.
Put in my modern car today,
to try to give me ulcers.
How many of you remember the day the Model 'T' was the rage?
That was the car I learned to drive, at a very early age.
It came in one color,
nothing but black.
You'd hold the crank right or your arm, it would crack.
On cold winter morns,
with that car of mine.
I'd drive off to work,
always on time.
They were wonderful days,
I hope you'll agree.
Oh! I wish I still owned that ole Model 'T'!

New house plan book has 450 different choices

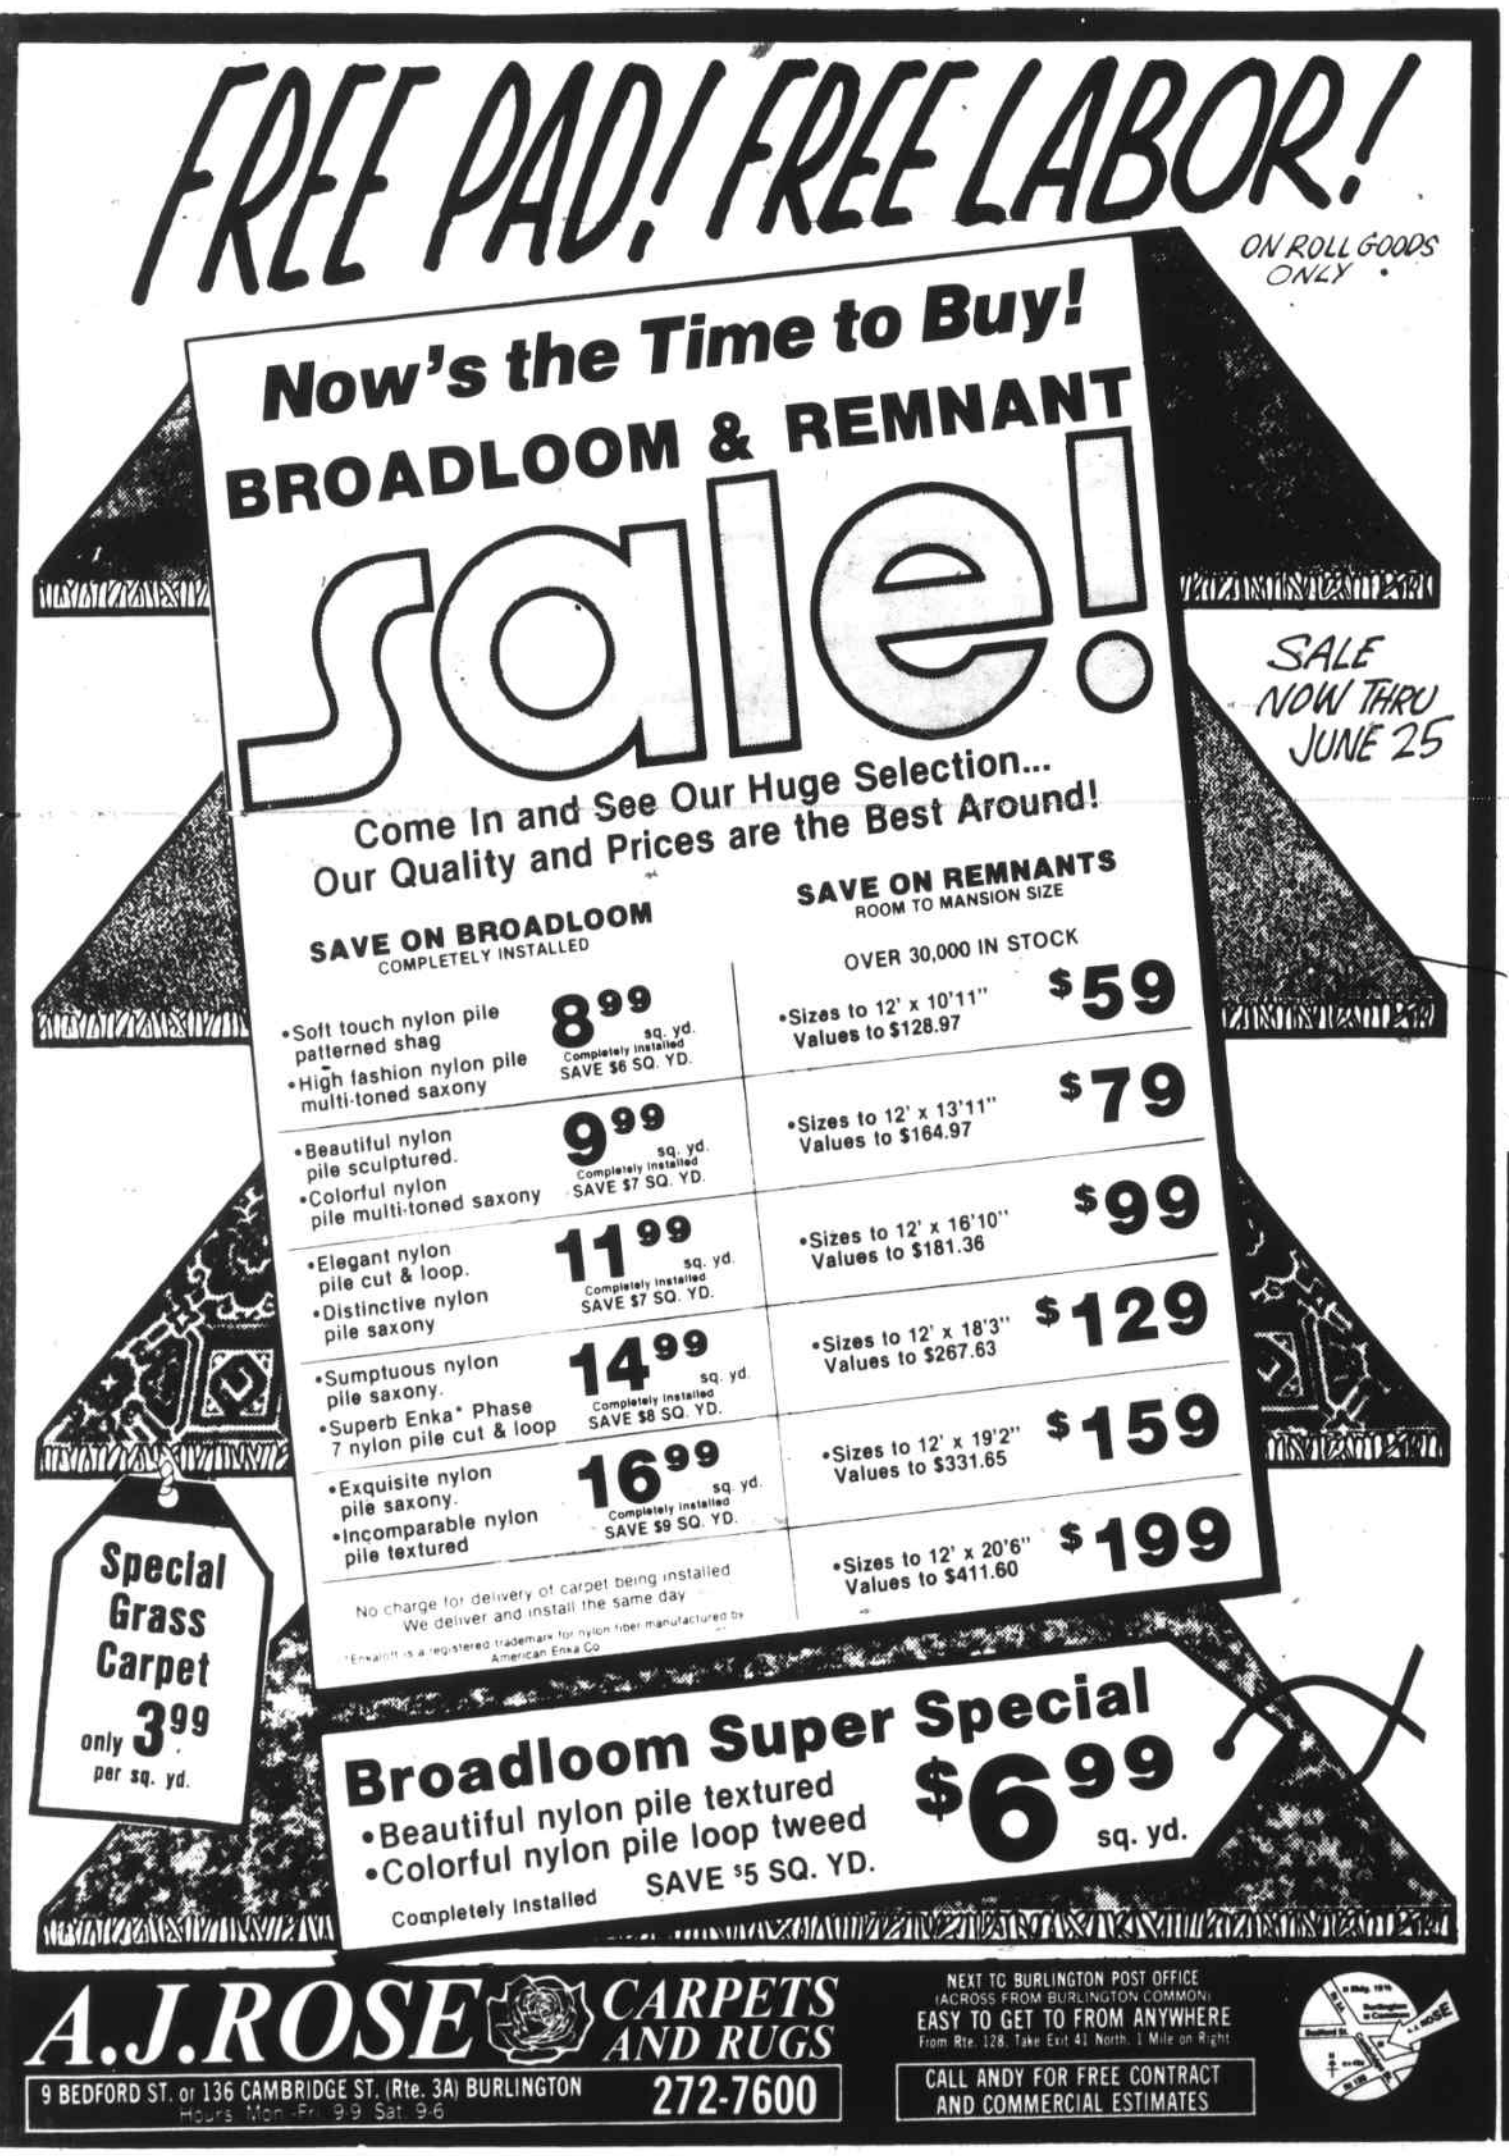
Home Planners, Inc., one of the nation's foremost creators and publishers of house plans, has announced the printing of the largest and most impressive plan book in its 38 year history.

Entitled, Encyclopedia of Home Designs, this 320 page volume features 450 house plans. The prudent use of second color highlights such interesting sections of practical floor plans and appealing exteriors as: Heritage and Trend Houses; One-Story Homes over and under 2,000 square feet; 1½ and Two-Story Homes; Multi-Levels; Vacation Homes; Country-Estate Homes; Houses with Optional Exteriors and Plans.

The delightfully rendered exterior styles include Salt Box, Gambrel, Garrison, Cape Cod, Georgian, Federal, Greek Revival, Tudor, French, Spanish, Western and Contemporary.

The easily read floor plan illustrations feature efficient traffic patterns; two to six bedrooms; studies, libraries and lounges; indoor and outdoor balconies; formal and informal dining facilities; gathering rooms and family rooms; efficient kitchens and first floor laundries. Construction blueprints are available for each design at modest cost.

Copies of Encyclopedia of Home Designs may be ordered by sending $8.95 to Home Planners, Inc., Dept. 284, 23761 Research Drive, Farmington Hills, Michigan 48024. All orders processed within 48 hours.



Employment prospects in this area are "Fair"

Employment prospects in the Burlington-Woburn area for the next three months are fair, according to the quarterly Employment Outlook Survey conducted by Manpower, Inc., the world's largest temporary help service.

Patricia Bleheen, manager of Manpower's Burlington-Woburn office, said, "Among local employers interviewed, 17 percent said they would increase staff during the third quarter. Only 3 percent plan decreases, while 80 percent anticipate continuing at present levels."

The local outlook falls somewhat behind the national average as reflected by the survey. Nationally, 31 percent of more than 11,000 employers contacted plan to add staff. Only 6 percent forecast decreases.

The survey here continues the trend of last quarter when 13 percent planned increases and 7 percent anticipated employment drops. For July, August and September of last year, 27 percent reported higher employment expectations and 17 percent were expecting to reduce employees.

The most favorable outlook here is foreseen by the services sector. Job opportunities are also expected by durable goods manufacturers, the transportation-public utilities sector and the finance-insurance-real estate sector. Slight reductions are anticipated by non-durable goods manufacturers. Other industries should remain at about the same level.

NATIONWIDE OUTLOOK STILL STRONG

Manpower President Mitchell S. Fromstein said that on a national basis, the current hiring projections are among the highest recorded over the 8 years of the survey's existence and provide a strong indication that the present economic expansion will continue through the summer and early fall periods. He said only slight regional differences were noted in the survey results, with weaker growth indicated in the South and stronger projections indicated in the Midwest and Western regions.

"These variations were expected," Fromstein commented, "as the Southern region has shown strong and continuing growth in the early recovery period while the Midwest recovered later and from lower recession levels."

Commenting on the survey results, Fromstein said, "The hiring outlook continues to be very optimistic with healthy workforce increases planned across all geographic areas and in most industries; however, a cautionary pause in employment growth seems to be present in the hiring outlook for Durable Goods Manufacturers and Construction firms. The firms which will add workers outnumber those which will reduce their workforce by 5 to 1. This compares to a ratio of only 1.4 to 1 in the 3rd Quarter of 1982 and 3.4 to 1 last year. The strength of current hiring plans indicates that there is still underemployment compared to the degree of economic growth in the post-recession period."

Fromstein said that labor shortages of skilled white-collar workers were beginning to develop in major cities of the U.S. "Orders for our temporary office workers are running 60 percent ahead of last year," he said. "This developing shortage of office workers is being accelerated by the rapidly growing installation of new office systems for which trained or experienced operators do not yet exist."

Variations in employment plans by industry sector indicate that hiring in the Construction and Manufacturing sectors will be curtailed slightly from the last quarter highs but will remain comfortably above last year's levels. Seasonal increases are projected for the Wholesale-Retail sector in anticipation of the back-to-school selling period and in the Education sector as new school years begin. Hiring plans in the Services, Finance and Transportation sectors remain at the same levels as last quarter and substantially ahead of last year.

MIDWEST, WEST PACE NATION

Continuing a strong trend established last quarter, the Midwest region showed the most positive thrust in recovering from the depths of the recession, while the Western states show a strong and stable growth.

Among Midwest employers, 31 percent report plans to increase their present workforce, while 7 percent plan cutbacks. Construction and Manufacturing industries, while weakening a bit from the second quarter outlook, still reflect seasonal strength. Other industries approximated high second quarter levels.

The outlook for construction jobs slipped somewhat in the West, where the climate does not create as strong a seasonal pattern. While 33 percent of Western Construction companies reported plans for employment increases, 10 percent expected decreases. Last quarter, 35 percent planned to add employees and only 3 percent foresaw a decline. Other industries showing regional strength in the West are Wholesale-Retail Trade, Public and Private Education and Public Administration.

Conditions in the South failed to exceed the national average for the first time in the survey's 8-year history and firms in the Northeast edged slightly ahead of their second quarter expectations.

SOME SLIPPAGE APPARENT IN LARGE INDUSTRIES

A slight slippage is apparent on a national scale from high second quarter levels among Construction and Manufacturing companies. Construction firms indicated three months ago that 45 percent looked toward employment increases, while 4 percent planned to trim staff levels. For the quarter ahead, 44 percent expect increases and 5 percent plan cuts.

A similar situation exists among manufacturers of both Durable and Non-durable Goods. Among those making Durable Goods, 34 percent reported plans to add staff, while 6 percent said they would be cutting to lower levels, 57 percent would remain at present levels, and 3 percent didn't know. This compares with prior quarter results of 37 percent expecting additions, 5 percent planning cuts, 54 percent who would remain the same, and 4 percent who didn't know. Non-durable Goods Manufacturers reported a similar pattern. Those adding employees dropped from the second quarter level of 30 percent to the present 28 percent, while those reducing employment were at 5 percent in each quarter.

The large sectors involving Services and the Wholesale-Retail Trade remained approximately at second quarter levels as did the Mining industry, Transportation-Public Utilities, and Finance-Insurance-Real Estate. Small gains were posted by Private and Public Education and Public Administration employers.

THE EMPLOYMENT OUTLOOK SURVEY

Manpower, Inc conducts the Employment Outlook Survey on a quarterly basis. It is a measurement of employer intentions to increase or decrease the permanent workforce, and during its eight-year history has been a significant indicator of employment trends. The survey, conducted during the last two weeks of May, is based upon telephone interviews with over 11,700 public and private employers in 354 U.S. cities.

Manpower, Inc. is the world's largest temporary service firm, annually providing employment to more than 700,000 people through its 1,050 offices in 32 countries. Office services account for more than half of the assignments at which its temporary workforce is engaged. Its parent is The Parker Pen Company.

How about summer in the Caribbean?

Although the Caribbean "Season of Sweet Savings" begins in the spring and lasts through the fall, the summer months are perhaps the most attractive because that is when most Americans are free to travel on vacation. From Aruba to Anguilla, from the Bahamas to Belize, from the Virgin Islands to Venezuela, the 27 member-countries of the Caribbean Tourism Association offer visitors seductive holiday bargains.

This is a time when a relaxed, easygoing life-style pervades this part of the world; there are many unusual attractions specifically designed for leisurely enjoyment, and great values abound..

The greatest value of all is the price of hotel accommodations. Reductions average from 30 percent to 50 percent and even more, as compared to winter rates. Amenities and services at the hotels remain the same, but the cost for a vacation goes down; it is simply a case of supply and demand.

The following random samples of outstanding hotel bargains during the "Season of Sweet Savings" are representative of those found in many other properties throughout the Caribbean. (Quotations are without meals, unless otherwise indicated.) The Holiday Inn on Aruba takes 47 percent off its winter rate for a superior-double by 32 percent to $74. Le Galion in French St. Martin quotes a standard-single at $50, for a neat 50 percent savings. Barbados' Southern Palms drops its oceanfront-twin from $114 to $62, or 46 percent less than last winter. Guadeloupe's La Creole Beach quotes $61 for a double with breakfast, a reduction of approximately 30 percent. In Puerto Rico, the Dutch Inn offers a superior-double at $60, for a 40 percent savings. In Martinique, the Frantel's $52 double-room is 31 percent less than last winter. In the U. S. Virgin Islands, the Grapetree Beach on St. Croix offers a 36 percent reduction on its superior-double at $80 instead of the previous $125. In the British Virgins, Peter Island resort cuts its single-room rate by 46 percent from $285 to $155, with breakfast and dinner. On chic St. Barts, the 70 villas and studios represented by Sibarth lower rates by about 40 percent. In the Bahamas, the Wyndham Ambassador's minimum single or double drops from $100 to $60. And at the top of the bargain list, the Royal St. Kitts on St. Kitts slashes its superior-double from $135 to $56, or 59 percent!

This year again many of the members of the Caribbean Tourism Association are offering special bonuses, gifts, and incentives — which are called "sweeteners" — to those visitors who come during the "Season of Sweet Savings." For example, in Anguilla there is a selection of one free hotel night for seven paid nights, a boat excursion, an island tour, wine or rum, or a free airport transfer depending on the hotel chosen. In Barbados, a bottle of "Falernum," the local rum liqueur, is given. The U. S. Virgin Islands, Guadeloupe, and Trinidad & Tobago make bottles of rum the "sweetener." In the Dominican Republic it's a sourvenir handicraft. The British Virgin Islands grant a free hotel night for seven paid nights, as well as rum, a guidebook, and local seasoning salt. Martinque's contribution is a madras souvenir bag with a handicraft, perfume and rum samples, in addition to a complimentary greens fee. A car for one day during the seven-night stay (at Vue Point Hotel), a complimentary meal at a local restaurant, and a free airport transfer comprise Montserrat's "sweetener." In Grenada it's a bottle of rum and a spice basket; in St. Lucia, jars of locally made jam; in Jamaica, miniature bottles of rum and Rumona. Dominica provides a complimentary dinner, a bottle of rum, and souvenir pottery or a straw handicraft. Puerto Rico gives a coupon for free admission to. "LeLoLai" folkloric shows around the island for a minimum one-week stay.

The variety and importance of the special events scheduled for the summer and fall offer proof of the new attention given to the non-winter months. Carnivals used to be staged only at the start of the Lenten season in February or March, but now many have been transferred to spring and summer.

One subject that puzzles some people considering a Caribbean vacation outside the winter months is "the weather." Truth to tell, it's remarkably constant throughout the year, and statistics show that there is only a five degree difference in temperature from winter to summer. The average is in the low 80 degrees. Of course, the water is warm and inviting all year round, with a plethora of such nautical pastimes as undersea diving, a sport that is great just about everywhere and especially popular in the little islands of Turks and Caicos, located north of Haiti.

A comprehensive folder on the "Season of Sweet Savings" is available from the Caribbean Tourism Association, 20 E. 46th St., New York, NY, 10017. It contains a sample list of "sweeteners" with a voucher, and a list of tour "packages" with a handy order form.

Adventures in Music winners

The Adventures in Music program under the direction of Mr. Peter Mansfield, held its annual gala student participation concert, "Igor's Sensational Circus" April 29, May 5, 6, and 12 at the Reading and Lexington High School Auditoriums. For the eighth straight year in a row composition students of Mrs. Gerry Cruickshank, Music Specialist at the Robin Hood School in Stoneham were winners.

Winning top honors this year was Philip Cefalo, grade five, for his thirty measure piece for orchestra entitled, "Banana Boogie." Philip scored his piece for saxaphone, flute, trumpet, marimba, singers, snare drum, and string orchestra. As "Winner", Philip had his piece played and recorded by the Adventures in Music Orchestra and received an award certificate along with his own personal recording.

Other winners from Robin Hood were Rachel Podradchik for her forty measure piece for full orchestra entitled, "Crazy Tocks" and Christine Genaitis for her sixty-eight measure piece for string orchestra, piano, glockenspiels and marimba entitled, "Coney Island Rain," Rachel Podradchik is a fifth grade student at Robin Hood School and Christine Genaitis is a third grade student at Robin Hood.

"The children," said Mrs. Cruickshank, who has also won a special award in the past for outstanding teacher of musical composition, "work long and hard creating their masterful original musical compositions. The winners are indeed more than worthy of these very special honors. Congratulations, Philip, Rachel and Christine!"

Senior Citizens low-cost vacation places

Senior Citizens! Are you looking for a low-cost, restful vacation spot where you can still get the most out of the warm weather?

If you're healthy and age 59 or older, Morgan Memorial's Buss Inn is the place for you. More than 100 seniors may vacation there this summer.

Buss Inn is located on the grounds of Morgan Memorial Fresh Air Camps in rural South Athol, 75 miles west of Boston, at the entrance of the scenic Pioneer Valley near Quabbin Reservoir.

The Inn itself is a converted, two-story farmhouse, more than 150 years old, with two large central fireplaces and a spacious, comfortable porch. It can accommodate up to 15 guests per week, in single or double rooms.

Active seniors will appreciate the availability of the many resources of the Fresh Air Camps, including paddle boating, rowing, canoeing, arts and crafts, dramatics, archery, farming, gardening, nature study, bird-watching, croquet, horseshoes, shuffleboard, and a variety of day trips.

Evening programs include campfire, sing-alongs, cards and bingo.

Seniors are encouraged to participate in talent shows, special events and carnivals with the children's camp. Those who take full advantage of the camp facility will enjoy themselves the most.

Buss Inn is ideal for individuals, couples or groups to spend their vacations.

Camera buffs will be thrilled with the more than 500 acres of forests, trails, grasslands, wetlands and hilly terrain.

Transportation is provided by Morgan Memorial from a designated point to camp.

The only prerequisite for attending, besides the age requirement, is passing a physical examination after April 1, 1984.

Eight Sessions will be offered this summer, with five and seven-day weeks. Dates are: July 2-6; July 6-13; July 16-23; July 23-27; July 30-Aug. 6; Aug. 6-10; Aug. 13-20; and Aug. 20-24.

Seniors may attend Buss Inn after August 24 by special arrangement with Morgan Memorial.

Rates — including all meals and snacks — for a five-day week are: double room $45 and single room $50. Rates for a seven-day week (including food) are: double $60 and single $70.

For more information on Buss Inn, contact Camp Director Joanne Hoops at Morgan Memorial Goodwill Industries, 95 Berkeley Street, Boston, Ma. 02116 or call her at 357-9710.

Jacob's Pillow Dance festival

This summer the Jacob's Pillow Dance Festival opens with the Martha Graham Dance Company (June 19-23) and ends with a week of zany acrobatics by the Flying Karamazov Brothers. (August 28-September 1).

Following the Graham opening, the Pillow stage will be graced by some of ballet's finest young stars including Johan Renvall, Patrick Bissell, Amy Rose and National Ballet of Canada's Gizella Wikowsky, among others, in Ballet '84: New Views and Debuts (June 26-30). The first week in July will be highlighted by the Pillow premiere of the Bucket Dance Theatre (July 3-7) followed by New Directions: Mime and More (July 10-14) featuring American artist Daniel Stein and a collection of avante-garde works by choreographers Timothy Buckley and Maria Cheng. Other high points of the season include the Ohio Ballet (July 24-28) and Ballet Hispanico of New York (August 7-18). The Hubbard Street Dance Company will be back by popular demand (on July 31-August 4). For the first time in twenty-five years, the Merce Cunningham Dance Company returns to the Ted Shawn Theatre (August 7-11). Two weeks of Pillow Parades will feature guest soloists such as Sara Yarborough of Alvin Ailey fame (Ballet Parade: July 17-21) and Fred Strickler of the Jazz Tap Ensemble (Jazz Parade: August 21-25).

In addition to our mainstage productions, informal showings of choreographic works-in-progress will be danced and discussed in our Inside-Out series.

reservations and information call Jacob's Pillow (413) 243-0745, or write: Jacob's Pillow Box Office, P.O. Box 287, Lee, Ma.

COME TO THE FAIR

New Orleans, the site of the 1984 Louisiana World Exposition, is also a wonderful place for cooking, celebrating

LOUISIANA GUMBO

1 cup vegetable oil
1 3/4 cup all purpose flour
1 1/2 cups chopped onion
1 cup chopped celery
1 cup chopped green pepper
3 cloves garlic, minced
4 cups chicken broth
2 1/2 to 3 pounds chicken, cut in pieces
1 can (16 ounces) whole tomatoes in juice, undrained
1 bay leaf
1 teaspoon Tabasco pepper sauce
1 pound shelled and deveined medium-size shrimp
1 package (10 ounces) frozen whole okra, cut into 2-inch pieces
3 cups cooked rice

In large saucepot, heat oil; add flour and cook over low heat, stirring often, until roux turns dark brown in color and develops a nutty aroma. Add onions, celery, green pepper and garlic and cook until vegetables are tender. Slowly add chicken broth, a little at a time, stirring after each addition; bring to a boil. Brown chicken pieces separately until golden in color and add to saucepot with tomatoes, bay leaf, and Tabasco sauce. Simmer, uncovered, 45 minutes. Add shrimp and okra; cook 10 minutes longer. Serve with rice and additional Tabasco sauce, if desired.
YIELD: 6 to 8 servings.

Summer fun!

Coming Attractions

By William Pacino

The Colonial Corvair Club of Beverly is holding an auction on June 25 at 7:30 PM of many new and used Corvair parts. All Corvair enthusiasts are welcome to come buy and sell parts. Included in the evening is a slide presentation of Clarks Corvair Parts, Inc. of Shelborne Falls, Mass. There will be doorprizes as well as refreshments at the American Legion Hall at 3 Judson St., Beverly. Parking is on Pond Street.

Buzzing Brontosaurus

On July 4th a 34 foot long, 1000 pound replica of one of the greatest dinosaurs that ever lived - the Brontosaurus - will be flown down the Charles River to the front of the Museum of Science. From there it will go on tour of Boston and surrounding towns, after which it will be placed on display in the Museum's lobby on July 6th.

The Flight of the Dinosaur will begin around 10 AM from the Eliot Bridge in Cambridge, continue down the Charles River, and touch down in front of the Museum's Charles Hayden Planetarium around 10:15 or 10:20 AM. This flight is being made to commemorate the 75th anniversary of the discovery of the most complete Brontosaurus skelton, made by Earl Douglass, bone hunter in the Summer of 1909, in what is now known as Dinosaur National Monument, Utah.

Little Shop o f Horrors

A musical comedy smash about a people-eating plant will play a five week engagement at the Colonial Theatre, previewing Tuesday, July 31 at 8 PM and running through Saturday, September 1.

"Little Shop of Horrors", based on Roger Corman's 1960 cult horror film classic of the same name, is still playing off-Broadway to sell-out audiences after more than two years and 500 performances.

Set in the 1950's, "Little Shop of Horrors" combines nostalgia with campy humor as it tells the tale of a villainous plant that grows bigger as it consumes various members of the cast.

Tickets are priced from $30 to $13.50 and are on sale at the Colonial Theatre box office, 106 Boylston St., 426-9366. Tickets are also available by telephone charge by calling Teletron: 720-3434 and are available at all Ticketron outlets.

FESTIVALS:

A three-hour parade, the First Marine Band in Concert, a fabulous fireworks display, and the 5th Dimension in concert. Quite a lineup? They're only a few of the events planned for Newburyport's 27th annual Yankee Homecoming.

On July 28 through August 5, the smallest city in Massachusetts, Newburyport by the sea, will relive its tradition in such celebrations as Old Fashioned Sunday, Market Square days, Beerfest and Aviation Day, Day in the Park, Pet Show, House tours, Sidewalk sales, sailboat, road and bicycle races.

Also included will be a Strawberry Shortcake Festival, Lobster Feeds, Ham and Bean Suppers, and a chowder fest.

Don't miss out on this year's Yankee Homecoming in Newburyport.

From two dinosaurs, the Corvair and the Bronotosaurus, to festivals and theater, COMING ATTRACTIONS has something for everyone. But if we overlooked an event of interest to all that you know about, write, care of this local newspaper and tell us all about it. There is always so much that looks good enough to try.

All-Star polo tournament

The Cadillac All-Star Invitational, the second highest polo goal tournament of the entire season and the largest money purse ever kicked off Tuesday at Myopia Polo.

Four 16-goal teams will vie for the $5000 prize money and the coveted Cadillac Cup. Top national and international players including eight goal Argentinian Juan Martin Zaveleta, winner of last year's Cadillac Cup' Juan Lalor, seven goal Argentinian; and Steve Orthwein, six goal player from St. Louis just to mention a few will be on hand for the six day long tournament. The finals will be on Sunday, June 24 at 3 p.m. promising the best polo to be seen in the area to date.

This high-goal tournament hosted by The Metropolitan Cadillac Dream Team in supporting the March of Dimes.

The Myopia Polo grounds are located on Rt. 1A in Hamilton (exit 20N off Rte. 128.)

Hampton Playhouse starts 36th summer season

John Vari and Alfred Christie's Hampton Playhouse, located on New Hampshire's beautiful seacoast, is currently putting together its 36th season of live theater, set to open on Saturday, June 23rd.

Just a quick look at the line up gives one an idea of the fun that should be in store for the patrons. The opening show is "Twice Around the Park", a new comedy by Murray Schisgal, author of the hit movie "Tootsie", and stars Marcia Wallace of the Bob Newhart Show, and features Frank O'Brien and Frank Vohs. Next comes "Nurse Jane Goes To Hawaii", an "hilarious (the Daily News, N.Y.C.) comedy farce that stars Joyce Bulifant, T.V. personality, and queen of the T.V. Game Shows.

The third play of the season features the regular Hampton favorites, Aida Berlyn, Jo Flores Chase, Frank Vohs and Frank O'Brien, all of whom have done many summers at The Hampton Playhouse and have many supporters in the area. Starting July 30th and running for three weeks will be the popular revue that has been a staple at the theater for many seasons. This year's all new version has many beautiful voices (and dancers) who belong to Broadway performers with outstanding credits and will feature skits, productions, and equal opportunity stripping. Naturally, it is for adults only.

The final production of the summer is a comic confection that was one of Broadways all-time hits. It is an adventure comedy and it will star that delightful star of the Mary Tyler Moore Show, Georgia Engel, who played Georgette on the show. It will run from August 20th through September 1st.

For those people who are new to the seacoast area, The Hampton Playhouse has probably produced more stars of the current American theater than any other stock company. Renee Taylor, autor and star of "Lovers and Other Strangers" and "It Had To Be You" and Vincent Gardenia, Academy Award nominee and Tony Award winner, both started out at Hampton. So did the following: Sylvia Miles (two time Academy Award nominee), Katherine Helmond (Jessica) on the T.V. series "Soap". Tony LoBianco, last starred on B'way in Arthur Miller's "A View From The bridge," Jo Beth Williams, current star of "The Big Chill", one of this season's big movies, David Doyle, best known as Bosley on the T.V. series "Charlie's Angels", Rue McClanahan, star of Maude (she was Vivian, the next door neighbor,) and not the aunt in "Mama's Family" and many more, including the newest one, Helen Slater, soon to be Supergirl in the new movie "Supergirl".

Both discount season subscription tickets and individual show tickets are now available for purchase. the Playhouse, one of the area's attraction spots, is at 357 Winnacunnet Road (101E), Hampton, N.H. 03842. The box office number is (603) 926-3073.
